Canadian Fighter Brings Lloyd George "Liar—Resolutions Passed."

OFFICERS OF NEW ASS'N President, Dr. M. A. Cunningham Vice President, Mrs. L. J. Cronin Secretary, J. G. McWilliams Treasurer, J. J. Patrick Stein

A Janesville branch of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic to be known as the Patrick P. O'Rourke association, was organized at a mass meeting of 100 people at St. Patrick's school hall, Wednesday night, following a stirring address on the Irish situation by James Maxwell Murphy, 29-year old World War veteran of the Canadian forces.

The new association means the death of the old organization formed here two years ago known as the Friends of Irish Freedom. Amalgamation with the new American association was unanimously agreed upon, Wednesday night, and officers were elected with an executive committee of 15 members.

The following resolution was passed to be forwarded to Wisconsin senators and representatives at Washington.

Resolved by American citizens, residents of Rock county, Wisconsin, in mass convention assembled, Sept. 21, 1921, at Janesville, Wis., that the purpose of happiness by an individual can be enjoyed only under a government of his own choice; that no race has a right to impose its will upon another without its consent; that the right of self-determination is as applicable to small nations as to large ones; that Ireland, by every right, is entitled to be free.

"We, therefore, as American citizens urge the Congress of the United States of America to recognize the Republic of Ireland, established as such and that this recognition be extended without undue delay."

"Y" Drive Date Set for Oct. 3

So as not to conflict with the convention of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities to be held in Janesville October 12-14, the dates for conducting the campaign to raise money to cover the budget of the Janesville Y. M. C. A. for the coming year was set for the week of October 3, instead, by the executive committee of the Y. M. C. A. Thursday morning.

Heads of the four different divisions who will be in charge of the active work in chosen Thursday at William J. McGeehan, J. T. Toulon, Harry Haggart and H. S. Lovejoy. Each major of a division will choose four captains each of whom will choose four men to be on his team. The contest will be held at 2:45 Monday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A.

The American City Bureau man who will be at the head of the campaign will arrive here Monday. The executive committee will probably meet Monday to do some pre-campaign work.

FITZMORRIS LOCAL CHIEF

Sentimentalists are generally favorable to Chief of Police Fitzmorris, Chicago, in his controversy with Judge David which resulted in a fine and jail sentence for the chief for contempt of court. Chief remarks about the Carl Wanderer murder case.

"I am with Chief Fitzmorris—I think he is right," declared Chief Charles Newman.

While Judge H. L. Maxwell did not commit himself upon the case, but said the public has a right to offer constructive criticism of courts.

"Although it is not permissible to condemn a court as 'rotten,' 'crazy,' or hold it up to public ridicule, the public may criticize constructively," explained the judge.

Hole in Ground Marks Site of Great Factory; Gasses Choke Rescuers

BULLETIN

Mayence.—While estimates of the number of dead from Wednesday's explosion mounted Thursday to approximately 1,500, the total of persons actually found to have been injured exceeds the first figures by a wide margin. Already 2,500 persons have received treatment for hurts sustained through the first effect of the explosion. Bodies of the dead to the number of 350 had been recovered Thursday forenoon.

Nuremberg, Germany.—French troops and volunteer workers toiled through the night in the ruins of the Badische Anilin company's war-burned chemical plant at Oppau, where hundreds of workmen were killed by an explosion Wednesday morning.

Estimates of the number of dead ranged as high as 1,500 early Thursday, but definite figures were impossible.

More than 300 bodies had been recovered, however, and it was known that at least 2,500 persons were injured by the blast. Oppau was virtually swept away and the explosion hurled devastation over a wide district on the west bank of the Rhine between Mannheim and Frankenthal.

The scene of the explosion was more than 20 miles from the Rhine, but every window in that city was shattered by the concussion. The shock was felt in towns 50 miles away.

There were hundreds of workmen at or near the ill-fated plant at 7:30 a. m. when the explosion occurred.

French Hail Rescue.

Immediately after the blast every means of rescuing injured and bringing out the dead was utilized, but several minor explosions prevented workers from entering the grounds for a long time. Great clouds of chemical fumes hung over the shattered scene of ruin and the first men to enter the place were compelled to wear gas masks. These fumes spread as far as Mannheim and Ludwigshafen and it ended to the chagrin of the frightened people. An investigation of the explosion has been ordered.

The buildings of the Badische company have been almost entirely destroyed. A great hole in the ground marks the site of the main structure.

It is believed at least two rascals exploded and that aluminum rounds stored in the buildings were detonated. Nitrogen products are unstable, as a rule, and it is believed that the explosion, which was relatively light, set off great masses of chemicals. Another theory is that a nitrogen tank let go and that four others were set off by the concussion.

Soldiers Guard Injures.

Order is being maintained in the town of Oppau and vicinity by French soldiers, that district being within the French zone of occupation.

This is the second time Oppau has been destroyed. In 1932 a dam burst above the town and the place was swept by a wall of water.

General Degoutte, in command of French forces of occupation, went from this city to Oppau and ordered the evacuation of the town. The army of the Rhine. He has organized kitchens to feed the families of victims of the disaster and the high commissioner has given 75,000 marks to the workers' syndicate to alleviate distress.

BRITISH CABINET FIRM IN DEMAND

Attitude Toward Irish Proposal Cool, Belief of English Press.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London.—Prospects of a conference between Sinn Fein representatives and members of the British cabinet at an early date were declared Thursday by the English press to be less than bright as a result of Wednesday's consultation between Premier Lloyd George and several of his ministers at Gairloch. Several newspapers reflect this view.

From political correspondents at Gairloch generally agreed that the ministers showed a more rigid attitude toward southern Ireland.

They demand withdrawal.

It is declared there is a tendency on the part of the cabinet members to insist that Eamonn De Valera formally withdraw his claim that Sinn Fein delegates would enter the conference as representatives of a sovereign state. They are said to urge that such withdrawal be made before the government agrees to meet the Sinn Fein delegates.

The English press has declared that the Sinn Fein delegates are to be given by the Sinn Fein that if the conference meets the separation issue shall not be raised.

Premier Lloyd George, according to the Daily Mail, is taking an unbending attitude in the face of the latest Irish communication and is supported by his colleagues. The London Times, however, remarks that Wednesday's meeting scarcely represented all shades of opinion in the government and it expressed the opinion that for this reason Mr. Lloyd George desires to consult all members of his cabinet before replying to De Valera.

Need Not Alter Bars, Belief of Madison Judge

Madison.—Bars in saloons need not be removed or altered to comply with the new prohibition law, according to Judge Stevens. He told attorneys for Milwaukee saloon interests, who have brought a test case to determine constitutionality of the statute, that the law is not unconstitutional. Stevens was not an official decision, but was given as a statement to the attorneys.

The judge said he was satisfied from consideration of the law that the attorney general was wrong in his opinion that bars must be altered or moved to give a free and unobstructed view of the bar and behind them. This upheld one of the principal contentions of the plaintiffs in their case.

Other questions of a constitutional nature were taken under advisement by Judge Stevens. Their determination is expected to have a far-reaching effect on enforcement of the state prohibition law.

URGES GRADUATED CORPORATION TAX

Washington.—A graduated tax on corporations, in lieu of the republic plan for a flat 15 per cent levy, is proposed in an amendment to the tax revision bill offered Thursday by Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts.

In collaboration with Senator Gerry, democrat, Rhode Island. Under the amendment, corporations having net incomes of $100,000 or less would pay at the rate of 10 per cent; those having incomes from $100,000 to $300,000, at 15 per cent; and those having incomes above $300,000, at 20 per cent.

JUSTICE DEPT. MAY SUMMON KU KLUX HEADS FOR QUIZ

DAUGHERTY WOULD QUESTION OFFICIALS OF "EMPIRE"

FACTS ARE SOUGHT

No Need in Country for Vigilance Organizations, Says Attorney General.

Washington.—High officials of the Ku Klux Klan may be summoned to Washington for interrogation by the department of justice, Attorney General Daugherty indicated Thursday.

In connection with the possible summoning of Klan leaders to Washington, the attorney general said the department of justice had the authority to summon anyone and it was its policy in the course of an investigation to get the facts over with persons involved.

The attorney general said that any criminal prosecutions would be the most part be matters of state law. He had been some violations of the federal statutes through the use of the mails to defraud.

There is no need in this country, Mr. Daugherty said, for vigilance organizations. The country does not need, he added, any self constituted organization to define and enforce the laws for America.

The department of justice, he said, is a well organized department of justice to enforce the federal law and well organized state authorities to maintain the laws of several states.

ROADS DICTATING COAL PRICE, CLAIM

Markets Department Says Fuel Plenty but East Keeps Price Up.

Madison.—Coal will be plentiful in Wisconsin this winter, but at prices equal to those of last year, the department of commerce announced Thursday, after an extended investigation of the state situation.

The department says that it finds the cost to the consumer of coal is being kept up by the railroads and by the demand and supply of competition.

Receipts of soft coal at Wisconsin docks during the year 1920 and increased 100 per cent over 1920, and of hard coal about 35 per cent, the report shows. These heavy receipts are said to be due to the increase in the use of coal for power.

The state will need 13,000,000 tons of bituminous coal this winter, and 2,200,000 tons of anthracite, according to the department's report. Of this amount, 7,500,000 tons of bituminous is said to have been received up to September 1, together with 1,350,000 tons of anthracite.

The deficiency is expected to be supplied before the close of the navigation, except for 2,000,000 tons of soft coal for which all-rail shipment from Illinois and Indiana will provide.

Control of the hard coal price is declared to be "absolutely dictated by eastern railroad companies, who have practically a monopoly of the anthracite production in Pennsylvania, with the Wisconsin wholesalers of hard coal selling on consignment, and with nothing to say about price. They merely remit the price which the eastern companies set, minus freight and commission," the report says.

The fact that there are no mines in Wisconsin is said to make it impossible to obtain information regarding the cost of producing coal and the profits of anthracite operators, the report declares that "even the federal government has been blocked by an injunction which the anthracite mining companies obtained from the federal courts against the Federal Trade commission, enjoined (Continued on page 5)

FUTURE, NOT PAST, VITAL, SAYS PASTOR IN SWAT AT BRYAN

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison.—The expression of William Jennings Bryan, denouncing the findings of modern science as anti-religious, are attacked Thursday in a statement by the Rev. Edward S. Wernick, pastor of the First Congregational church of Madison.

President E. A. Birge of the University of Wisconsin is a member of this congregation, where he has taught a men's bible class for 30 years.

"From his statement before students here, it would appear that Mr. Bryan knows very little of the form of content of the modern biological development which he attacks, nor is he especially well posted in theology," the statement says.

"Yet he tries to maintain that, without an unending view of the course of life on this planet one can not be a Christian. Mr. Bryan feels he is degraded and brutalized by the thought that his limbs and organs are the product of a biological process traced back to primitive protoplasm through a long series of developments."

"It does not seem that dust and clay and atoms confer any greater dignity. It is not what we came from on the material side that matters to Christian faith; it is what we are headed for in the spiritual side."

"A man can earn his bread and butter regardless of the location of his earliest ancestors; he can also worship the highest, choose right from wrong and live the life of spiritual growth in either."

DEBS PLEA TO WHITE HOUSE NEXT WEEK?

Lighting to Cost City Ten Times What It Does Now

The city of Janesville will pay in the districts and on the streets of the city where the new lighting system is being installed, ten times more for lights than the taxpayers do now. These plans went through in the winter and were all done and finished when the new council went into office, except for a few minutes after the city was seized.

The city will pay $7,300 a year more for its lights than heretofore. City officials estimate the cost of lights will be about $12,000. Read what he has to say about the city lighting system just installed and what a double expense has been entailed to the taxpayers without gaining anything, in the Gazette.

BANK BANDITS GET 25-YEAR SENTENCE TO STATE PRISON

WABENO ROBBERS HAND-ED STIFF PUNISHMENT FOR CRIME.

COURT GUARDED

Third Defendant Draws Year in Waupun as Accessory After Fact.

Grandon.—Willis Lesperance, Oconto, and Chalmers Yeager, Green Bay, principals in the Wabeno Bank robbery, were sentenced to 25 years each in state's prison by Judge W. J. Quinn late Wednesday in circuit court.

Lawrence Lesperance, an accessory after the fact, was sentenced to one year in prison. The three bank robbers pleaded guilty through Judge J. J. Walsh, assistant district attorney, "Frenchy" Yeager, alleged to have been an accessory after the fact, was dismissed. The men were taken to Waupun, Wis., where they will be held in the court house.

The bank robbery, which took place July 15, created a sensation in Wabeno. After locking the robbery and his assistant in the safe, the bandits scooped up $32,000 in cash and bonds and escaped to the woods. A man hunt was started and the woods hunted for several days, but the robbers succeeded in escaping.

"Frenchy" Yeager and Willis Lesperance were captured in Green Bay, while Chalmers Yeager and Lawrence Lesperance were apprehended in Chippewa Falls about a month ago.

Borah Kicks on Treaties

Washington.—Opposition to the peace treaties, which were accepted by the administration with Germany, Austria and Hungary developed Thursday when the senate foreign relations committee began consideration of the new treaties.

Senator Borah, leader of the "irreconcilables," in the fight against the treaty of Versailles, explained the basis of his opposition to ratification of the new treaties to the committee, which considered only the German pact and adjourned until Friday without taking action.

Senator Borah's statement was said to be based primarily on the acceptance in the new pacts of provisions of the treaty of Versailles.

Quiz Doctors in Mystery of Family Murder

Dowagiac, Mich.—Cass county authorities were working from a hunch today to solve a mystery surrounding the murder in their home here of William Monroe, his wife and 17-year old daughter, Nevada, who were beaten to death with a nail.

At the coroner's inquest, resumed Thursday, physicians who examined the bodies of the two women were to testify. The testimony of the two had been attacked before they were slain. A former neighbor of the Monroes family was held in the county jail at Cassopolis for investigation.

He is said to have quarreled with them two years ago, when his poultry invaded the Monroe garden. He was questioned all night by the authorities, but insisted he knew nothing of the crime.

The third angle extended to Detroit, where a man whose life is said to have been threatened by Monroe was sought for his life. Monroe was learned; formerly resided in Dowagiac, but was ordered by Monroe to leave here a year ago when he paid attention to Nevada. The man is said to have been in Dowagiac Saturday night, the time the murders are believed to have taken place.

DISARM MEET NOT FINAL, IS WORD

Failure of Conference Would Not Be Signal for Wild Arming, Explanation.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
Copyright 1921, by Janesville Gazette.

Washington.—The United States government is anxious to avoid the creation of an atmosphere of feverish expectation concerning the success or failure of the forthcoming conference on the limitation of armaments and far eastern questions.

Cautionary word was passed out from government sources in the hope of offsetting any impression that the success of the conference is absolutely essential to the future well-being of the United States.

"Our government will not get into a matter which is not its own," was the way it was expressed. "We are simply laying all cards on the table in a simple and straightforward way. We want to avoid any speculation. The development of anything like a super-interest would be a mistake, for we can continue to function with or without conference."

Exchanges of this utterance is simply that so many people are beginning to speculate as to what will happen in the world if the conference should fail to agree. Would it mean a race for armament supremacy? Also, it has been suggested that it some of the powers get the idea that the United States cannot afford to have the conference break up without achieving results, America would be in an impossible position at the conference table and might be in the uncomfortable attitude of host who could not differ with guests. No such status is contemplated at this end. When once the conference is convened, it will not get down to business without any trills and without any conscious delicacy as to the American position.

Exchanges of views between the powers, as to what subjects shall be included in the program of the conference, have developed unanimity of opinion already. The subjects are so broad in scope to permit of the widest latitude. It is not intended that there shall be any special order of consideration given to the topics. It is expected that the entire program will be gone over at the first conference and committees appointed to thresh out moot points on each topic so that the whole program will be "in the works" at one time.

Experts to Get Busy.

Some impression has been created that, before armaments would be discussed, there would be a lengthy discussion of far eastern questions and that it might be months before the real purpose of the conference—limitation of armament—would be achieved. That is the basic idea of the American delegation. It is hoped that the experts who know all subjects from a technical angle will be put to work at once and that the delegates will meet with them. Whenever a report is ready for the full conference, it will be taken up. Of course, everybody realizes that if friction is to continue in the far east, the limitation of armaments will not be viewed as practical by the nations concerned. But instead of waiting for an agreement on far eastern questions, the conference will approach the subject of limiting armaments on the theory that before the conference is over, an agreement on controversial points will have been reached. Thus the world will have an opportunity to know what could be accomplished.

The way of reduced expense for armament and this information may perform the device of leverage in compelling reluctant elements in the conference to come to an understanding on far eastern questions.

One Handle Subject.

This explanation which comes from official sources is designed to answer those critics who have imagined that the American delegation "bit off more than it could chew" when it lured in far eastern questions along with the problem of disarmament. The American delegation believes all the subjects can be handled concurrently and that while it is an agreement on far eastern questions is a necessary prerequisite to any limitation of armament, the whole program will be thoroughly canvassed before final decisions are made. Meanwhile there is a sensing here of superfluous excitement over the conference. Perhaps this arises from the elaboration of preparations being made to handle the conference itself, possibly from the great amount of attention being given it by the newspapers. But the words of caution are passed out largely to avoid an artificial impression of what really can be accomplished or what might happen if the conference failed.

Earth Round? Naw sir! 's Flat; Science Ain't So, Declares Wilbur G.

Chicago.—The story of "The Village That Voted the Earth is Flat" has an earnest adherent in Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of Zion, the religious community that Alexander Dowis founded at Zion City, north of Chicago.

Declaring there is no proof whatsoever of the sphericity of the earth or that the earth has any motion. Over-seer Voliva says he is "prepared to refute modern astronomy, scientific theory as well as from the standpoint of the Bible."

Here are some of the points he advances:
"All standing water is level. Let anyone disprove it, he can. They cannot disprove it. This is conclusive evidence that the old Pythagorean-Copernican system of the sphericity of earth is false."

Canal on Level! So!
"A man stood at Kingston, Jamaica, and saw the lighthouse at Havana harbor, eighty-two miles distant, which is another conclusive proof that the sphericity of the earth is a fallacy."

The midnight sun has been seen hundreds of times, but it would be absolutely impossible to see it on a sphere. You would have to look through hundreds of miles of earth and rock.

"There is a railroad in South America two thousand miles long which is almost perfectly level. The Suez Canal is a hundred miles long without locks and with scarcely any rise at all. Where is the curvature of the earth? There is none."

"No wonder higher critics and modern believers in the Copernican system of astronomy laugh at the flood and say that such a thing as a flood could not occur on a globe or a spheric earth—and I agree with them. They are perfectly right. That is what the devil intended when he invented the modern astronomical theory—to destroy the Word of God."

Can't See Through It.
"They say that eclipses are caused by the earth passing between the moon and the sun, causing the shadow; but how can you have an eclipse with both the sun and the moon above the horizon? It is a matter of record that there have been a number of eclipses with both the moon and the sun above the horizon. No one knows what causes eclipses."

"They tell you that the sun is ninety-two million miles away. I laugh at that, not only as a mathematician, but also as a student of God Almighty's Word."

"Did God Almighty create the earth and then create a light to light it up and put it ninety-two million miles distant and make it a million times further than the earth? What kind of a fool would build a house up in Tennessee and erect a light a hundred miles from it to light up the parson? They say that science is not speculation; but if science is true, then there can be no conflict between it and the Word of God—but when it comes to the Word of God, they have not a leg to stand on. I will take the Word of God and down any modern astronomer on the face of the earth and dispose of him in less than thirty minutes."

"They tell you that the sun is ninety-two million miles away. I laugh at that, not only as a mathematician, but also as a student of God Almighty's Word."

"Did God Almighty create the earth and then create a light to light it up and put it ninety-two million miles distant and make it a million times further than the earth? What kind of a fool would build a house up in Tennessee and erect a light a hundred miles from it to light up the parson? They say that science is not speculation; but if science is true, then there can be no conflict between it and the Word of God—but when it comes to the Word of God, they have not a leg to stand on. # SETTING THE GOAT, OR CHASING THE GASOLINE HOG

Suggestion is made in the September issue of American Industries that states throughout the country set out now to establish laws that will make life a burden to "gasoline hogs" of all kinds that infest the highways, and endanger pedestrians and themselves.

"Gasoline hogs" are divided into the following classes of dangerous and inconsiderate drivers:

1. The man who leaves his empty car standing in a busy street all day long.
2. The man who turns a corner at 15 miles an hour after a single foot of the horn, giving the pedestrian no chance.
3. The man who fails to stop back of the building line when halted by a crossing cop.
4. The man who passes to the left of a trolley car, whether the street is empty or crowded.
5. The man who refuses to stay in the traffic line, and persists in edging ahead of the man in front of him.
6. The man who uses the left side

QUIZ WILL RESULT IN MORE REVENUE

Increase of $1,500,000 in Wisconsin Seen Following Investigation.

Madison.—Investigation by experts of the tax commission into the incomes of Wisconsin corporations is expected to result in return of nearly $1,500,000 more revenue this year than would have been obtained had the companies' own estimates been accepted as a basis for the assessment.

This conclusion is reached by the of the street or roadway to get ahead of the line.

7. The man who, intending to turn a corner, rushes up alongside of the car on the right, thrusts out his hand, swings across the front of the car and compels the latter driver to make his car stand on its nose to prevent a collision.

8. And the worst of all, the men whose passengers stick their hands in all directions, leaving you to guess whether he intends going to the right or left or up in the air.

HIGH COURT HEARS TWO LOCAL CASES

Kressin and McGinley Appealed Suit Argued at Madison.

Two important Janesville cases involving the local decision are before the Wisconsin supreme court, Thursday and Friday.

In one case an important ruling is expected on the issue of what extent a corporation is responsible for damages to a person guilty of trespass. The decision will come in the verdict to be handed down on the damage award to Laverne Kressin, an infant, against the Janesville Traction company.

The other case is the injunction proceedings brought in Rock county circuit court over the $15,000 damage award to Laverne Kressin, an infant, against the Janesville Traction company.

The case was argued by the appellant and defendant company. Advances claim that a damage award under the conditions of the company's "all reasonable care" testimony showed the Kressin youth and others got into the car, put on the electric power and ran the car until it smashed into a passenger traction car.

Most of the cases involving the injury of children the rule of uniformity to be that where children are trespassers on a car, the company is not bound to keep a lookout or to prevent such trespassing and cannot be charged with negligence only in the case of Attorney Douglas's brief filed with the supreme court.

Kady and Kady, Whitewater, represented the respondent.

Test Trial Rights.

The other action is over whether McGinley has the legal right to have his claim heard in a Minnesota court. He being a resident of Janesville and the accident happening in Rock county, counsel for the St. Paul railroad contend that trial should be held in that state.

This brings in the question of whether a state court by injunction process, can limit the jurisdiction and venue of a case in a personal injury action under the Congressional "Employers' liability law."

The right of McGinley to sue in Minnesota brings in constitutional claims.

Verdict is Large.

Judge Orin, granted the injunction restraining the plaintiff from prosecuting his case other than in Wisconsin and made the order permanent. Despite this, the trial was held in Granite Rapids, Minn., and the jury returned a verdict of $45,000 for the Janesville youth. No attack is made on the verdict or amount other than the Minnesota trial is not law.

Attempts for McGinley claim that damage cases are transitory.

The award granted to McGinley is one of the largest in the courts of either Wisconsin or Minnesota for injuries suffered in a railroad accident.

Robbery Rumors Create Stir Here

JANESVILLE DEPOT ROBBED

JANESVILLE, Wis.—Burglars forced open the safe at the Milwaukee road station, getting $250 in cash and mileage tickets valued at $240.

The above brief article, appearing in yesterday's paper was the cause for a rush of questions Thursday morning to the local officials of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway.

As the morning wore on, the story grew until station agents and others along the St. Paul line had it that the robbers had blown the safe here and—

Milwaukee police of the St. Paul line had the account and were about to come to Janesville to make an investigation. Telephone inquiries were also received.

The robbery, by the way, happened early Wednesday morning at Delavan station of the St. Paul. The series of thefts at railway stations has aroused the state.

ing it from collecting any data as to mining costs.

"Apparent Monopoly."

"A sinister condition in the coal situation," the department says, "the apparently monopolistic control of the eastern operators have of the whole business reaching from mine to retailer as the large dock companies also conduct retail business making their interests interlocked so that it does not give an independent company an opportunity, except upon terms and conditions as the dock companies name."

In other words they must either pay the price that the dock companies fix, which price is primarily set by the price made by the eastern operator, or go without coal.

Profits Not High.

Coal companies at Milwaukee, Racine, Sheboygan, Superior and Ashland averaged 35 cents net profit per ton of coal. The investigation brought out that the largest concern was according to the report, the smaller was its profit per ton. One of Wisconsin's largest coal distributors operated at a net profit of 20 cents per ton in 1920, compared with 24 cents and 25 cents under government control. This corporation is said to have averaged 8 per cent on its investment in the coal ton year.

How does one on anthracite coal amounted to $1.95 per ton in 1920, the report shows. One estate is said to have received $2,051,935.37 in a single year from its Pennsylvania coal holdings.

HOTEL GUEST MOANS OVER GREAT (?) LOSS

"Valise, valise, who has my, monshine!"

So wailed a guest at one of the local hotels Wednesday night. He deposited a small satchel in his room and went out to attend to some business.

He doesn't care about the valise, he says, but he would like the contents—one quart.

FALLS OVER AS IF DEAD WHEN SHOWN HIS TAXICAB BILL

Contest Over Proposed Ordinance Predicted Tuesday Night.

Protesters of manufacturers, against certain sections of the new city zoning ordinance are expected to be filed with the city planning commission at the public hearing on the ordinance, next Tuesday night, it appears from information gathered Thursday.

Should the ordinance be approved in its present form, it is argued, it would prevent a score of industries from re-building their plants in case they were burned down and would make it unlawful to enlarge them to more than 50 percent of their present size.

Is Declared Unfair.

Manufacturers point to this as unfair and some charge it "ridiculous." Under the terms of the proposed ordinance, even the Janesville Electric company would not be permitted to re-build its Fourth avenue power plant in case of a fire which destroyed it. It is pointed out, as all that section would be classed as second business district, thus barring industries.

The Janesville Clothing company, Janesville Shirt & Overall company, New Doty Works, Rock River Machine company, Sarsen plant No. 2, Janesville Fence & Post company, Blodgett Milling company, Janesville Products company are a few of the large plants which would be most seriously affected, as the district in which they are located would be classed as second business district.

Three Industrial Districts.

"While I realize the good work the city planning commission is trying to do, I think this section of the ordinance feasible," said one manufacturer. "If any or all of these plants should be destroyed by fire, what would they do with the property?"

You might argue that retail stores could do a good business on North River street but there isn't much chance of it.

As the ordinance now stands, it provides only three industrial districts—one east of North bluff street, in the vicinity of the Hanson plant; another south of Sharon street in the vicinity of the Samson, Hohensadel and Hough Shale plants; and the third, west of Center avenue.

FARMING JOBS FOR NEGROES, SHERIFF WHIPPLE'S LATEST

Ernest Sloan, a colored porter, hailing from Deloit is having a new experience in life. He has transferred his activities from the barber shop to down on the farm.

Now he is aiming up the milk pail and manureing the swine pen.

"Next," shouts Sloan as he finishes milking the cow with the brindle horn.

He was committed to the Rock county jail from the Deloit municipal court for 30 days when convicted of intoxication. Sheriff Cash Whipple at once paroled the prisoner out to a Rock county farmer.

THE GAZETTE'S PLATFORM

Build a Community Center and Convention hall for the city; for athletics, conventions, musical entertainments, civic and social purposes. This is also a part of a program to provide music and entertainment for the people of the city. More small public and playgrounds and provide at least one large park where the whole people may recreate at will.

Keep the city looking bright and clean with paint and the streets free from filth.

Either build a new hotel or an increase the facilities of the present hotel so as to take care of the transient public and be able to handle conventions.

Finish the high school at an early date and finish the public school proper educational facilities.

MAKING A BUDGET AND THE LINE OF LEAST RESISTANCE

Attempt will be made to cut off the office of Sanitary Inspector. The Gazette is credibly informed, by the makers of the tentative budget to be presented to the council next Monday night, that the real motives actuating the makers of the budget may be of little consequence. What the city is interested in are the consequences of the act itself, should it succeed. For the first time in the city's history there has been real sanitary inspection in 1921. The assault on the office is a call to arms for every citizen in Janesville. There has been less infant mortality this year than usual. There have been no epidemics. The deaths from dysentery, in spite of the extreme heat of the summer have fallen to a negligible number—only one. Restaurants and stores have been inspected. Alloys have been cleaned as never before. Now the budget makers want to destroy all that has been done.

THE GREATEST ARMISTICE DAY OF ALL

Announcement is made officially, that Armistice Day will be a general holiday over the United States and on that day will begin the conference of the disarmament delegates at Washington. It will be a short session because the day will be given over to a joint memorial of all nations participating in the disarmament conference.

ARMISTICE DAY WILL BE FOR THE PEOPLE OF ALL THE WORLD THE GREATEST MEMORIAL IN HISTORY.

The climax of human emotions was reached that day of November, three years ago, when it became known for a certainty that hostilities had ceased. One event came trending then on the heels of another with the end of the German military autocracy and the abdication of the Kaiser. By that act ending hostilities we confronted a sober moment's reflection as to what it was all about and what had been accomplished by this war.

WHAT IS THE COUNCIL THERE FOR, ANYWAY?

Monday night a resolution was passed to buy two cars of crushed stone from Waukesha. Janesville has four companies able to furnish crushed gravel. One of these is a member of the council. But there are three others in the business and the saving to the city would have been about half of the amount spent for the Waukesha material. At the council meeting Monday night it was suggested that the order need not be placed even though the resolution had been passed. But the mayor revealed the fact that one car had already been ordered. In fact the one car had been bought on the Thursday before the resolution was introduced and without any authority from the council. It will cost the city twice as much as though the material had been ordered here from home people.

WHAT IS THE COUNCIL THERE FOR, ANYWAY?

While it is true that a tax exemption comes by marriage, the total amount will hardly pay for the ring, let alone the minister.

THE FLOOD PROBLEM

By FREDERICK J. MANKIN

Washington, D. C.—Repeatedly during the past summer the front pages of the papers have been filled with the news of flood disasters. Hundreds of lives have been lost and millions of dollars worth of property destroyed. Two food-sized American cities have seen floods tear the hearts out of their business districts, many smaller places have been damaged and countless farms have been flooded.

Any one can see that a great engineering problem faces the country. Leaving out the question of human life needlessly destroyed, the loss of property is enormous. The floods of 1913 are estimated to have done damage to the amount of $163,846,733. In Dayton alone the damage done amounted to $73,245,640. Between 1900 and 1903 the damage done by floods in the United States, as estimated by the Geological Survey, varied from a minimum of about $17,000,000 to a maximum of about $200,000,000. Plainly enough such losses are intolerable, and large expenditures for flood prevention would be an economy.

The facts of this large loss and of the need for doing something about it are generally recognized. Wide publicity has been given to both. The house of representatives has recently created a special committee on flood control, which may be taken as reliable evidence of the popular demand for some action in the matter. Millions of Americans have had the flood menace impressed upon them, not only by publicity but by actual experience.

The number of American cities that have been flood-swept at one time or another is surprising.

Adequate action is of course dependent upon this public recognition of the need for it. The trouble seems to be that a great deal of misinformation has been disseminated as to the cause of floods and the means of preventing them, with the result that there has been no public demand for a really sound method of flood control.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON

LIFE.

Life to the barber's a head of hair;
To the bookbinder, a pair of shears;
To the youth of sixteen, a flaming young queen;
To the rummy, a shot of booze.

To the girl in the show (you all know this I know)
It's a mad whirl of joy-riding dizziness;
To the gambler it's luck, to the fighter it's luck,
And to me—well, that's none of your business.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

COURAGE.

What is courage but the will
To do the noblest thing?
To meet what comes of good or ill
And play the man and soldier still Though hurt and failure sting.

What is courage, but belief
That good shall crown the strife.
That disappointment's hours are brief
And out of bitterness and grief
Men come to larger life.

What is courage, but the sum
Of all that men have learned.
The songs of voices long since dumb,
The call of freedom's stirring drum,
The shakings men have suffered.

What is courage, but the grace
To meet life's trials as they come,
To bring the splendor of your race
To duties grim or common-places
Until the final bell.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

It is difficult to estimate whether exercise or rest does the greater amount of harm or good in health and disease, for each of these supreme remedies is capable of doing so much of both or either.

It is a most bewildering thing, the pervasiveness of inactivity in the matter of exercise and rest. Sometimes it seems that there is some one else test, such as persons with active tuberculosis, splenitis, anemias, uncompensated valvular disease, hyperthyroidism, and the like, are keen about "getting through" through exercise and particularly fearful of the "bug" of "growing weak by remaining in bed." And curiously enough, those who are sick with persons with greatest heart diseases, by windows, auto-intoxication, and morbid anemia, prefer to take "a good blood tonic," or monkey with some kind of vitamin, or purports to rub it in, or delude themselves that driving a diver is exercise. These people are all of one class—sitters.

From seven to 10 hours out of every 24 hours should be devoted to complete rest by every adult who desires to enjoy good health. But scarcely one-third of us know what complete rest means, and how to get it. In bed it is to spend a good share of the night twisting and turning in the vain endeavor to find a restful position in a bed that is hard, fit, and the like. Many people with enough money to buy good clothes and good food and everything, will slump along, at what cost heaven only knows, for years and years, and end by making a mistake in judgment, when a reasonable investment in springs and mattress would provide one that puts the come in welcome at bedtime, and the like. The four many miserable people who are in bed, and the willies these are nights on women wear mattresses that would serve as miniature golf links. To wake, to wake, and go to bed and twist and turn, and then to have to lie still wide-awake! And all to save the price of one of these "cursed" snoring machines and a dozen, more or less, "cursed" Jazz-bands, and a few short-sighted people.

Who's Who Today

MANUEL ESTRADA CABRERA.

The government of Guatemala has taken the advice of the government of the United States in the "case" of Guatemala. The sentence of death recently pronounced upon the former Guatemalan president, Manuel Estrada Cabrera, has been in exile since his deposition, last year.

Manuel Estrada was born November 21, 1837, at the city of Quetzaltenango, in the department of Guatemala. He studied law at the national capital and was appointed governor of the department of Retalhuleu, and in 1886, he was appointed justice of his native city. But these posts were not big enough for his ambitions. He managed to get himself elected to the second vice president of the republic. And then, when President Barrios was assassinated in 1898, Estrada was elected president. He was not the man who would automatically succeed Barrios. But that office was in the hands of the big men of the Barrios government, had a revolver on the table before him and remarked: "Gentlemen, I am president of Guatemala." And for twenty-two years he remained the ruler of Guatemala.

Cabrera amassed an enormous fortune, largely by confiscation of plantations and other properties in Guatemala.

Although Cabrera's regime was ruthless and his methods despotic, his defenders insist his long reign brought more good than evil to Guatemala. He improved the country's finances, reformed and liberalized the laws, fostered agriculture, introduced modern systems of sanitation and installed a really up-to-date school system based on American models.

Horoscope

The stars incline, but do not compel. THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1921.

It is a most auspicious day, according to astrology. Saturn, the Sun and Jupiter are all in benefic aspect. In the evening Mars is adverse. All who are depending on appointments or promotions should make the most of this day's opportunities, for they will find those who wield influence ready to dispense favors.

The Sun gives fair promise to those who seek employment, and especially to all who have executive ability. Heads of educational institutions should benefit during this conjunction which makes for development of ambitions and inspires subordinates with a desire for best co-operation.

Colleges will meet with many problems and educational institutions will be embarrassed by the number of young women who gain prominence in their studies and seemingly outstrip the men.

Those who declare that 1922 is to be a remarkably favorable year to the ambitions of women, but first they will learn lessons that are severe.

Warning has been repeatedly given by those who read the stars that women must eliminate many old-time habits of thought and action before they will succeed in high positions. Again the stars foretell supreme honors for women who will occupy the seats of the mighty.

The evening of this day may be exceedingly trying for those who quarrel and gives dominance to physical rather than intellectual forces. The influence of the planet supposed to encourage a lowering of passions and a growth of immorality and the prevalence of grosser impulses.

Rumors of possible war will be circulated at this time, but they may mean nothing except as they are a reflex of disquieting agitation. Children born on this day may be quick-tempered and impulsive. These subjects of Libra are generally prosperous.

Marquette Grads Sue For Licenses

Milwaukee.—Thirty recent graduates of Marquette Medical School began a legal fight Wednesday to compel the state board of examiners to issue them licenses.

The students had completed their courses successfully at Marquette, but in accordance with a new university ruling were not to receive diplomas until after at least one year's internment at a hospital. The graduates passed the state board examination, but were denied licenses. It is claimed, according to Arthur Richter, secretary of the state board of examiners, is obliged to issue certificates to persons who pass the board examination. The graduates made formal demand for the certificates, and if this is not granted they will begin mandamus proceedings in circuit court.

Protect The School Child's Health

This is one of the most vital questions that the mother faces in all the course of her life. If her children are not healthy they cannot succeed in their pursuit of an education—cannot grow into normal maturity.

Out Washington, Information Bureau, realizing this, asked the American School Hygiene Association to make a bulletin that would give the mother the best possible advice in keeping her children physically fit.

The book is now ready. It contains 48 pages, with charts, tables and an index so that each subject may be instantly located. It is undoubtedly the most practical study ever made of the subject. It is FREE TO ALL.

In the interest of the well-being of the children, the mother should fill out the coupon print name and address or be sure to this plainly. Send no more than 10 cents in stamps for return postage.

Turks and Greeks Fight on Ancient Battleground

[By Associated Press.]

Angora.—The Asia Minor campaign of the Greeks, to break the power of the Turks, the decisive battle of which may take place near this city, is staged on fields known the richest in the world with battle memories. The Great Hittite-Rishid and a host of others passed here with their armies, robbing and plundering, sometimes stopping to build fortresses and castles, making the place a strong hold and transportation center, midway between Persia and the seas.

The fortunes of war may have it that General Ismet Pasha will deliver battle on the plains of Chukabad to the north of this city, on the very plains where Tamerlane, with his Mongol hordes, in 1386 defeated Bayezid, the latter marching from Constantinople to stop the Mongols.

The advance of the Greeks is through a thinly settled country of treeless, rolling ranges of limestone mountains, two to four thousand feet in height, rising dry and hot out of the sea. The valleys are fertile, with well high watercourses, malarial valleys. At dawn and sunset the face of the country is mantled with a velvet screen of rose coloring, which the traveler learns to love. The traveler learns to love the stillness of the air, the heat and dust of broad day, hardly untempered by the scorching winds that blow steadily across the limitless, bare distances.

"Ours is rather an unhappy country in summer," explained a Turkish army doctor at one of the halts along the railway to Angora, where the soldiers were poisoning and dilling in the well after taking a last supply of water. "I spend my days and nights feeding guinea pigs," he added. "Absent here only Turke, sheep and shepherd dogs can live."

Parade Spots.

Nearer Angora, or in the districts distant from the valleys, a thorough which pass the railway, however, are sometimes discovered villages and towns seeming like little paradises by contrast. They are planted in valleys beside streams of spring water, where there is a brief respite from the heat of the sun, and the traveler approaches with his lofty poplar trees and green gardens and white mosques, where the birds are not too far advanced, ripe melon patches and orchards of white and red cherries.

Once in a long while the valley is made fertile by abundance of water, as at Teshiklik and then are seen very olive trees everywhere in the most delicious grassy prospects, horn larks with cardinal red tops twittering by the roadside, green and brown jays, birds, darting magnifies with pink and white bodies, and pink sweet Williams peeping from the bushes and, if the season be not too far advanced, ripe melon patches and orchards of white and red cherries.

Coeds Earn Cash, Build House at Michigan A. C.

Lansing.—This is the story of the house the co-eds built. They shined shoes in public, at ten cents a shine; they sold lemonade, served sandwiches, did house work and all manner of things, but they raised a thousand dollars and built the house.

Determination on the part of the co-eds at the Michigan Agricultural College, to build a "Flower Pot" house, is its trade name. Literally, it is a "practice house" for senior students in the home economics course. It ranks as one of the two orchard campus practice houses in the country.

The "Flower Pot" is a tea room built in a ramshackle building on the M. A. C. campus. It has a dining room, and a kitchen, and some home-made fixtures. Breakfast, luncheon and dinner are served. The food is furnished largely from the M. A. C. farm and by the students. The house was conducted throughout the state under the direction of the extension department of the college. Senior students, starting in September, did all the work. It is a "practice house" for senior students in the home economics course. It ranks as one of the two orchard campus practice houses in the country.

CHAPTER XXIX. THE STRANGE LADY

I have always thought that this new roman had a strange effect on me from the moment I introduced us. I did not hear her name. And that was very unusual with me, for Aunt Harriet had been very particular about that sort of thing when I was a child. I never heard the name of a person he was presented to.

But Aunt Harriet was calling her twin, so I knew her. I liked the name. It seemed rather a silly word, but that was my prejudice.

I looked at this stranger. She was all and thin, so thin as to be almost without it. She had a quantity of reddish hair, quite red in fact, which was cut short and brushed about her head. It was very wavy and it stood out in apparent confusion around her face. Her eyes were small and dark, but they were very intelligent. I studied out by her hair dresser, however, a simple effect that was very attractive.

There were present that evening in the room of the new dress women in the town. It was an odd affair, of a material I had never seen. It seemed to be all in one piece and draped about her in soft folds, but it followed the very latest silhouette. It was soft and shimmering, a greenish silver, and from her arms came a pair of bracelets with emerald bracelets, a long shimmering fringe hung, a fringe that seemed to be alive as it quivered and waved and shone with every slightest motion.

She was so magnificent and so daring and so different that for a moment I took in the general effect before I looked at her. Then I noticed that her eyes were small and almost green, that they quivered, that her skin was merely nice, but not lovely, that her hands were almost too large. I could give no guess as to her age—she might be a raw-boned girl of 20 who had been some wonderful woman of 40 who did not look her age.

"The eloping couple!" she greeted us, extending a ringless hand to each of us. "Your aunt has been telling me about it. She was so disappointed not to be able to bring you out as a debut last year. But I've been consulting her by telling her that now you are really established you will be able to do it. It's so awkward, really, being a little demure, eh?"

"How do you know, Gwen, you never were one," my aunt remarked. "The woman I heard of. Her husband, like herself, was different. It was a rich, sweet laugh though, much more pleasing than the shallow, forced sounds that most of my friends made when mirthful."

BEAUTY CHATS by Edna Kent Forbes

A COLOR SCHEME

At this time of the year we are all beginning to think about our new costumes for the fall and winter. The shops are showing new things every day and we are all particularly pleased because prices are really coming down.

The girl with the slender income should take care these days that she does not rush ahead and purchase all her clothes in a great burst of enthusiasm over the new models on display.

Before you begin your shopping at all you should plan out exactly what you are going to need for the coming season. First of all go over your last year's clothes and see what can be used again, the dresses and waists which, with a little freshening, will do quite well as second best.

Then decide just what your color scheme for the season is to be. The best dressed woman I know spends very little on her clothes and always looks well because she builds her entire wardrobe around one costume. For instance, if you get a brown suit and a brown hat to go with it, and then buy a black satin dress you cannot wear the hat with the dress, so you will have to purchase another hat, which will be an unnecessary expense.

The best plan a woman can pursue is to choose a color scheme for the season and then make all her purchases with that color scheme in mind. If you decide on a blue suit with a blue hat, for instance, and tan shoes, purchase a blue serge dress for warmer days. Your best plan if you must save money, is to wear all-black hats since these are never out of fashion and will go with both tailored and dressy garments. Dark blue relieved with scarlet is an excellent color scheme, or blue with gray if your tastes are cooler. In that case grey gloves, hat and shoes will serve for more than one dress. Your hand bag should never clash with your costume.

Mary—Your weight is exactly normal. If you send a stamped, addressed envelope, I will mail you an excellent hair tonic formula; meantime, massage the scalp each day until you create a glow all over it, from the increased circulation.

Worried—Peroxide of Hydrogen will bleach this hair on your forehead.

Black Eyes—Consult the doctor about your health, as no one should have such trouble with the skin. If you are in good health, eat properly and take a reasonable amount of exercise, the skin will need little more than good general care. Cosmetics will not cover damages done a skin that is being overworked through throwing off impurities, created by a bad digestive system.

Fred—You admit that you are too stout and say that you gain from three to five pounds each week from eating sweets, then ask me how you should acknowledge these gifts of candy. It sounds like a paradox and if you have any desire to retain this charm, which induces these boys to shower on you all these sweetmeats, I should suggest to them that I adore flowers and was thoroughly surprised with candy.

Heart and Home Problems

BY EUGENE THOMPSON.

Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 19 years and have been keeping steady company with a very nice young man for over two years. After I had gone with him for about a year he asked me to be his wife, but I refused as I did not know whether I really loved him or not.

A year has elapsed since then and I find that I love him. He has not asked me since, for when we were talking about it I said, "Any time you make up your mind just say the word and we will be married."

I am too reserved to do that. How shall I go about it to make him understand that I really love and want him? He often speaks of marriage, but never asks me outright.

ANXIOUS.

The young man is wrong in trying to force you to say that you will marry him. When he sees by your actions that you love him he ought to ask you again. Be sure and love him further. You are very young and can afford to wait.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been married about 13 years to a man who is good and generous to his family, but he is moody and slovenly in his habits and dress. At times it seems as though I cannot continue to live with him and retain my own self-respect.

The children are so sensitive to it that they will not invite their friends to the house. He is a man of means and leisure and has always lived amidst surroundings of refinement, but in spite of my pleadings he is growing worse all the time.

For instance, last Sunday, although we had a guest of distinction for dinner and I asked him to dress an hour before dinner was served, he came to the table with hands and nails so soiled it was nauseating—no collar, filthy trousers, slippers and no shoes and he did not care for dessert, he got up and left the table without even an apology.

The children are losing all their respect for him, and in spite of telling all my will power he is growing more and more repellant to me. It is particularly hard on account of the social position we have always held, but which we are fast losing, due, I am sure, to his slovenly habits. When in despair I have tried to point out to him where it was leading us, and the effect it was having on the children, but it only made him very angry. He tells me I know what I can do if I don't like it. I am independent financially.

Dinner Stories

The composer appeared in the office of the publisher the morning, and with grim assurance returned a check for $200. "You can destroy that," he told the publisher, "and make out one to my credit for $500."

"Nonsense," came the reply. "That's your royalty to date for your last song."

"Oh, no, it isn't," said the composer. "Do you mean to insinuate that the firm insinuates nothing. I make the simple statement that I want $500 in royalties. For the first time in my life I can be positive as to the amount. I married your bookkeeper yesterday."

"The reason there are so few good husbands is that the test is so severe. A really good husband will register something which looks like genuine grief on learning that the household's favorite fern has died in spite of everything that could be done for it."

Stories of Great Scouts

By Elmo Scott Watson

FORSTYTH SCOUTS, THE ORIGINAL "ROUGH RIDERS"

This is the story of 51 scouts, instead of just one, for together they won undying fame in one of the fiercest battles ever fought with the Indians on the frontier. They were Forsyth's Scouts, the "Rough Riders of 1825." Gen. George A. Forsyth, he had been called in civil war days.

The scouts met Fort Walker, Kan., in pursuit of a band of Dog-Soldier Cheyennes who had been raiding in western Kansas. Early one September morning while they were camped on the Arkansas river in eastern Colorado the Indians appeared and tried to stampede their horses. As the scouts prepared to mount and give battle, Sharpe Grover, their guide, touched Forsyth on the arm. "Oh, heavens, general," he cried, "look at the Indians!"

In the next instant the surrounding hills and valleys were alive with the scene, who charged down upon the scouts, but were driven off by a few volleys. Surrounded and hopelessly outnumbered, there was but one thing for Forsyth to do. In the center of the stream poured in a little island which grew a few small trees. "Make for the island, men!" shouted Forsyth. "It's our only chance."

They reached the island just in time. While the Indian warriors along the banks of the stream poured in a hot fire, a picked body of 500 warriors led by the Cheyenne chief, Roman Nose, charged down upon them, intending to ride over Forsyth's head in one red wave of destruction. The Indians were beaten back; they settled down to besiege the scouts.

Twenty-three of the 51 scouts had been killed or wounded when evening came. Forsyth was suffering from three wounds, and Lieut. Fred Beecher, the second in command, had been killed, as had the only surgeon in the command.

For nine days, in spite of hunger and wounds, the little band of scouts beat off the Cheyennes until two of the scouts managed to slip through the Indian lines at night and guide a force of artillery to their rescue. Once Forsyth gave the unwounded scouts a chance to escape, leaving him and the other wounded to their fate, but they refused. "We've fought together, and we'll die together, if we must," was their heroic answer.

The island was named Beecher's Island, in honor of their lieutenant, and today a monument stands on it to mark forever the place where Forsyth's Scouts fought so bravely.

dealer to pay her bill. Knowing the man pretty well, she said:

"I had quite a laugh over the way some one in your shop spells salmon," and she pointed out on the bill the item "pounds psalmion."

The grocer looked at it and said in a tone of contempt for such ignorance:

"That's the work of a new book-keeper, but he's got to learn to spell correctly if he wants to stay with me. Let me correct the bill, madam."

Taking a pen, he drew several lines through the word and wrote above it "salmon."

"There, madam," he said complacently, handing back the bill.

Urges Colonization Plan for Reclaimed Farm Land

St. Paul.—Railroads and business men are losing millions of dollars of potential business each year because of lack of well planned efforts to colonize reclaimed arid and swamp lands of the country. F. H. Newell, consulting engineer of the United States Reclamation Service, declared in an address before the 16th annual meeting of the International Drainage congress, which opened here Thursday.

"Thousands of acres of good reclaimed lands are lying unutilized in spite of enormous expenditures made by the government in irrigation and drainage work," Mr. Newell said. "This is because we have no proper system of colonization."

"For the most part, these reclaimed areas have passed into control of large land owners, that is, of men who are land poor and who are unable to utilize these lands and who are unwilling to sell them at a price such as to make it practical to colonize them."

"The dreaded evils of death, taxes, high freight rates, weeds and pests," he declared, "have come to be considered by some bankers and business men of these reclaimed regions as blessings in disguise—death, to break up the large holdings of these men who are keeping the reclaimed lands out of cultivation; taxes, to force further subdivision; high freight rates to keep the forage and grain on the farm, where it can be worked over into more profitable form; weeds and pests to enforce better cultivation, and prevent the careless methods now employed."

Mr. Newell asked the congress to embody in its discussions and conclusions the experiences and best results of Wisconsin and parts of Canada which, he said, had attracted many settlers to their lands by taking an interest in their success.

"IT DON'T SEEM POSSIBLE," SAYS JANESVILLE RESIDENT

Riverside Street Woman Marvels Over Relief Famous Tonic Trutona Has Given Her from Stomach Trouble.

"I tell you, it doesn't seem possible that any medicine could have given me relief such as Trutona has," enthusiastically declared Mrs. F. Zierath, 503 Riverside street, when the Trutona Expert called on her a few days ago.

"I'd spent much money trying other medicines, but nothing seemed capable of reaching my stomach troubles," she continued. "Often after meals I would become swollen and bloated up from gas formations, which seemed to affect my heart and made me short of breath. I was actually afraid to eat a hearty meal for I was sure to pay up afterward. My bowels were very irregular in action."

"But I'm honestly feeling 100 per cent better now than I have for years and I have this medicine Trutona to thank for it all. Why I just feel like now. I seem to have a new stomach as none of the food I eat ever hurts me nowadays. My appetite has never been better and I thoroughly enjoy eating a big hearty meal, since I have no fear of the after-effects. Trutona has regulated my bowels so that I never think of taking laxatives any more."

Trutona, the famous tonic, is being specially introduced and placed in Janesville at the PEOPLES DRUG STORE, where it is highly recommended.

Did you ever think of the value of a properly lighted store in relation to the monthly turnover of stock? Just give this matter a few minutes of your spare time.

Suppose you inspect your store some night after dark, like a prospective customer does as he goes from place to place to make his purchases and convince yourself of the lighting question. It will be time well spent.

You may find it impossible to make the necessary changes at once, but do the right thing. There is a reason. Some are doing it because it pays.

Friday Morning

School spirit, loyalty, inspiration will be shot across in a barrage that will be fired at the Janesville high school Friday morning at 10:55. A mass meeting of the students will be held and the rear line of support for the local grid squad will be given its first drill of the season.

If preliminary plans work out, Supt. F. O. Holt, E. J. Haumerson, Dr. Leitch J. Woodward, Elbridge Fifeid, Coachman Floyd Reynor, E. S. Lamoreaux and others will be on hand to stir the mass into realization that they must get back of the team this year and root it on to victory.

It has been a regrettable fact that the support given the team by the student body has been woefully weak. It was better last year than in 1919, but it still can be greatly improved. When the students root vigorously, even when the team is losing, then it can be said that Janesville high school has learned loyalty.

Second Bowling League Is Formed Here With 12 Teams

SEASON TO START
OCT. 7; TO ROLL
FRIDAY EVENINGS

Bowling took another jump in Janesville when the Industrial-Commercial league was formed at a meeting held at the Gazette office Wednesday night. Twelve teams are in the circuit. They are the Woolen Mills, American Express, Samson Tractor, Cadillac, Gazette, Parker Pen, Eastwick, Fordsons, Janesville Electric, Varsity Clothing, Golden Eagle and Post Office.

The first games of the league will be played Oct. 7, all games being rolled on Friday nights at 7:30. The season will consist of three times around. Through arrangements that are hoped to be made with the city keepers six teams will bowl each side of the river. This can be made with double headers on the West Side alleys, the second game starting at 8 o'clock, and with the use of two of the downstairs alleys on the East Side.

Game Meyer President.
Oto Meyer was elected president of the league. The other officers chosen are Roy McDonald, vice-president; Fred Granger, secretary; and Bert Cuts, treasurer.

A schedule committee will meet Friday night to map out the season. It consists of Fred Granger, Frank Masek and Oto Meyer. The prize committee is composed of Sidney Bostwick, chairman; Bert Cuts and Arthur Hager.

Retain Old Rules.
Practically the same by-laws as governed the successful Industrial-Commercial league of last year were accepted. They are:

1. The entrance fee for each team shall be $5.

2. A forfeit of $5 shall be paid to the treasurer before the team rolls its first game of the season.

3. The season shall consist of three times around, games being bowled on Friday nights, starting at 7:30. Double headers shall be bowled on the West Side alleys, the second game starting at 8 o'clock.

4. A fee of 25 cents shall be paid by any bowler not rolling 100 in any one game and a fine of 5 cents for each roll committed.

5. One week's notice must be given the secretary in writing of any man leaving a team who is to be replaced by another bowler.

6. The season shall start, Friday, Oct. 7, 1921.

7. Two prizes shall be given at each alley each evening for high scores. First prize, $2; second prize, 50 cents.

8. If a man does not show up, he takes the average of the low man on the opposing team.

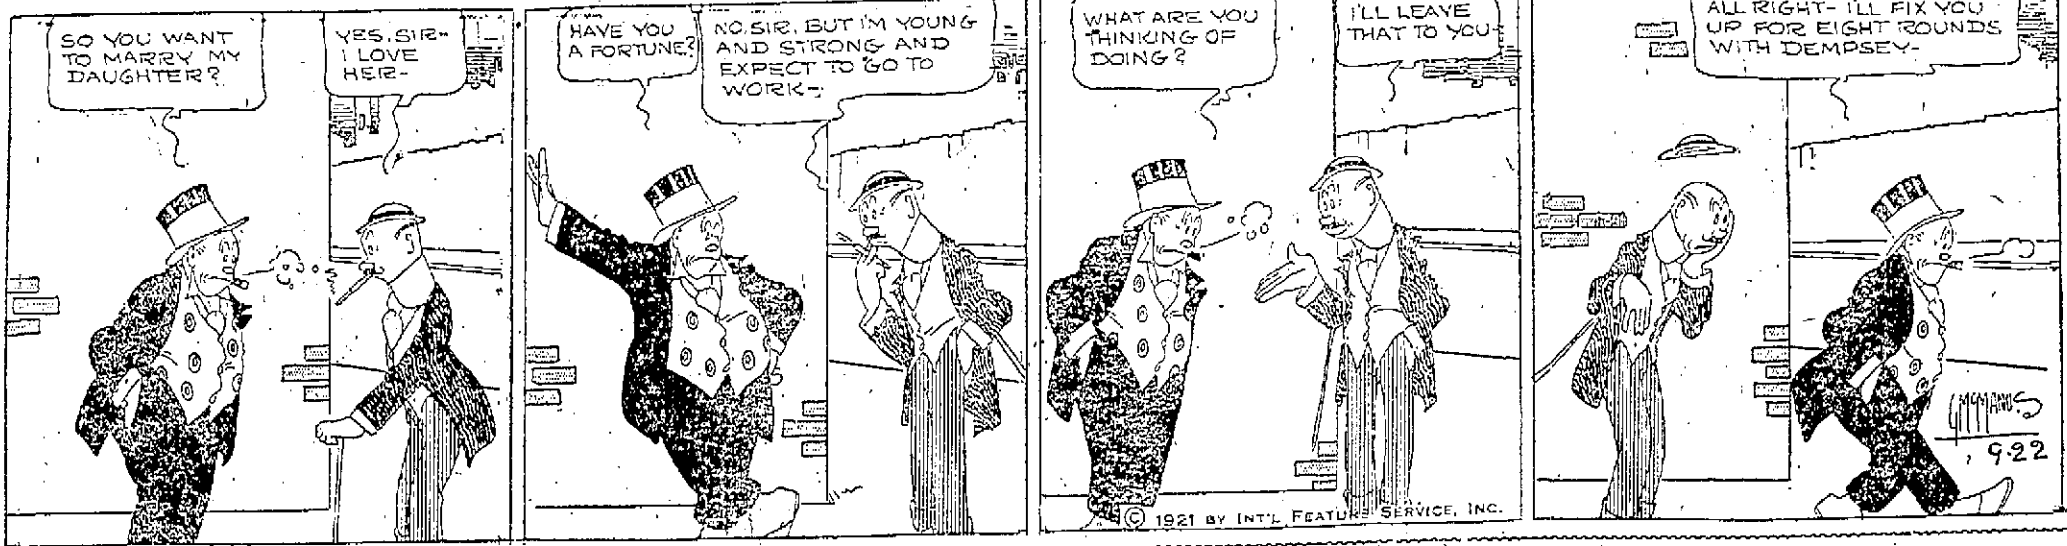

9. Teams must be four-fifths representation of the firms they represent.

10. Bar City League Men.
11. Two dollars must be paid the treasurer for all forfeit games.

12. The charge for each night's bowling shall be $1 per man.

13. No city league bowler shall be allowed to bowl in the Industrial-Commercial league unless he join

Bennett-Nowlan Capture Net Doubles Championship

Fighting under one banner as a team, George Bennett and Merrill Nowlan, who only a few hours earlier on Wednesday had settled the city tennis championship of Janesville with Bennett as the victor, won the doubles championship and the silver loving cups offered by the Janesville "Y" Tennis club by defeating Robert Cunningham and Donald Bates in the final round in four sets 6-5; 6-2; 6-2 and 6-4.

The first set was won by the Bollos-Cunningham team, 8-6, who with the score in games at 5-3 tied at 5-all and by consistent playing and a few points won the set.

Experience and long years of practice and adeptness as racket wielders finally won for the college stars but not without a desperate attempt. In the final round to tie the score at 5-all, the last 3 games were played almost in darkness, and Nowlan and Bennett won the final game and match.

Sam McKelvie refereed.

Wind Hampers Singles.
The match between Nowlan and Bennett earlier in the afternoon was hampered by the wind which blew the ball way out of course and prevented stellar playing as was expected in the match between the best two tennis players in Janesville. Both were careful and precise in their shots. The game was largely won and lost on backhand shots as both directed their shots against the other's backhand to avoid possible points through the excellent placement and terrible speed of each other's forehand shots.

Nowlan's errors combined with numerous service faults proved a large factor in deciding the contest. The first set won by Bennett was a presentation of wonderful tennis. Nowlan lost the set when he was within a point or two of winning. The next two sets were won easily by Bennett 6-2, 6-2.

Consolation Next Week.
Bennett won the singles trophy offered by the Y. M. C. A. and Nowlan the cup offered by the Tennis club for the runners. They are also given cups for winning the doubles event. The consolation event will probably be decided at the end of the week, and will probably play in the finals against Robert Cunningham.

St. Paul, Minn.—Earl McArthur, of St. Paul, Minn., won a technical knockout over Frankie Schumacher of Milwaukee, in the ninth round of their scheduled 10-round bout here Wednesday night.

Denver—Charlie White, lightweight, was matched to box 10 rounds to a decision with Bobby Ward, St. Paul, formerly of Beloit, Wis., here September 30.

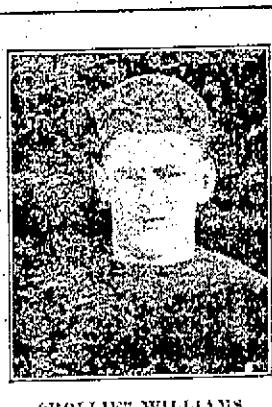

Washington—President Harding and Vice President Coolidge autographed a baseball to be auctioned for the benefit of Christy Mathewson.

Indianapolis—Howard Wilcox, of Indianapolis, won a 50 mile exhibition race at the Indianapolis motor speedway.

Chicago—Dan Johnson, president of the American League declared himself in favor of the 50 cents bleacher seats for the 1921 world series.

BADGER QUARTER

"HOLLIER" WILLIAMS
Madison boy who may be shifted from half to quarter on Wisconsin grid team. Williams is one of the greatest players in the Big Ten conference.

HILL JOINS MILTON COLLEGE GRID SQUAD; OUTLOOK IS BRIGHT

(By Gazette Correspondent.)
Milton—Russell Hill, a graduate of the high school of North Loup, Nebraska, arrived in Milton Tuesday and completed registration in the college the same day. Hill is a heavyweight and played tackle on last year's freshman football team at the University of Nebraska. He was also a victor in the class scrap there, and was prominent in pushball. He was prominent in the university social circles and belonged to the Kappa Delta Phi fraternity. Hill is heralded in Milton as a valuable asset to this year's football squad. Coach Crandall issued a call for all candidates of football to appear Wednesday, the first day of training.

May Shift Williams to Quarter on Badger Team

Madison—"Bollie" Williams of Edgemoor and star Janesville basketball player is likely to be chosen quarter back of the Wisconsin football team. It is more and more evident that Barr is not expected to become eligible and the coaches are casting about frantically for pilot material.

Williams, half back last year and star of the conference, is one of the best all around athletes in the university. He is now being tried for the place.

During his freshman year, Bollie held this berth. He goes through practice formation in expert fashion. But if he is shifted to quarter, the Badgers will lose his remarkable speed at half. Gibson and Gill are also being alternated for the post.

Schaller Wins Prexy Golf Cup

Albert Schaller captured the president's cup at the Janesville Country club. He defeated J. H. McVicar, 2 up and 1.

SUPREME COURT TO HEAR BECKER CLAIM

Monroe—Argument for the reversal of the decision of Judge George Grimm of the circuit court, who this spring gave a decision that the Green county taxpayers did not have to pay the $3,000 salary to ex-Probate Judge J. St. Becker for services which he did not perform and could not, will be heard Friday before the state supreme court.

The claim of Becker, which he has asked the supreme court to uphold and reverse the decision of Judge Grimm, is for salary as county clerk and juvenile judge for the portion of the elective term for which Becker was not qualified to serve by reason of having been ousted from office by Gov. E. L. Phillip. The ruling followed the conviction of Becker on charges of violation of the espionage law.

When the appeal was determined in favor of Becker, he demanded that the county board pay him for his services as though he had performed them. H. L. Butler, Madison, and the district attorney will represent Green county at the hearing.

BEALE CELEBRATES MARRIAGE WITH HOMER

"Rubber" Beale, former first baseman of the Janesville team, celebrated his honeymoon Wednesday by crashing out a home run with one on for the Simmons Bed company at Kanosh. His mates, however, lost the battle to the Deloit Fairies, 11 to 2.

Madison—A campaign of education concerning cancer and its control is planned by the state board of health, an announcement issued by it today says. It is said that the disease has increased rapidly in Wisconsin during the past few years. Early diagnosis and prompt and skilled treatment, are said by the statement to be the keynotes in the fight against spread of the disease. The death rate can be reduced by one-half if proper care is exercised, according to the board.

Quimet Defeated by Short Putts in U.S. Meet

(By Associated Press.)
St. Louis, Mo.—Four excellent contests Thursday marked the third round of match play in the national amateur golf championship, at the St. Louis Country club, but the medalist, Francis Ouimet, was absent as a result of his defeat Wednesday by H. R. Johnston of St. Paul, in a grueling match that reached the home green and was decided by a fraction of an inch, both final putts stopping on the lip of the cup.

Ouimet's conqueror Thursday played Jesse Guilford of Boston, who eliminated Dewey Weber of Chicago. This match brought together two of the longest drivers of the world.

Evans Meets Sweetzer.
Chick Evans, defending the title Thursday met Jess Sweetzer, the on-surviving metropolitan player, having won his way to the third round by two easy victories.

These two matches are in the upper half of the draw and their survivors will face each other in the semi-finals on Friday.

In the lower half the contestants were Bob Gardner of Chicago and were Bob Gardner of Chicago and were Bob Gardner of Chicago in one match and Willie Hunter, British champion and Bobby Jones of Atlanta in the other.

FRUSH NOW CLAIMS KILBANE FOULED HIM

(By Associated Press.)
Cleveland—Declaring that he had been deliberately fouled several times, Danny Frush of Baltimore, who was knocked out by Johnny Kilbane last Saturday, in the contest for the featherweight championship, issued a signed statement Thursday in which he claims the title. He said he was not only fouled in the first round when Kilbane hit him in the groin with his knee, but later on when the champion continued lashing after the bell had rung and Frush had dropped his arms.

Grid Coaches Want Change in Shift Rule

New York.—The football rules committee has received a request from coaches and officials to interpret the rules so that there shall be a distinct pause before the ball is placed in play in shift formation.

At a meeting of 200 coaches and officials a resolution offered by Foster Sanford was adopted, asking the committee to increase the following interpretation of the rules:

"In all shift plays an interval of time must elapse of sufficient length to permit officials to see if the formation is legal and to determine whether the ball was snapped into play while men were in motion."

The rules now provide that "a player shall not be ruled in motion if he has both feet stationary on the ground." Some coaches complained that some officials have permitted men to get in motion before the ball had been snapped into play, but coaches who have specialized on shift plays objected to any change designed to cause a pause in the attack on the ground that the defense would have a greater opportunity to set itself to meet the shift.

Unveiling of Windows

Thursday Evening, September 22nd, at 7:30 P.M.

The first brisk, crisp days of Autumn are almost on us. Even now there's an early morning tang to the air, and once more we begin to think of cold and snow. Already the forest folk are storing provender against the biting winds of winter.

We, too, have heeded these symbols of winter's rapid approach. A supply of ultra-smart town and country garments and furnishings for men, young men and boys has been prepared for your early inspection. Our Shoe Department, too, is prepared for the long season ahead with its footwear for men, women and children.

YOU ARE INVITED—

To this Fall Style show—everything has been made ready in all sections of our store. For weeks we have been receiving new suits, new overcoats, Fall hats and caps—in fact, everything for the well-dressed man. You will find the latest styles in women's low shoes for Fall in full array—the new blucher oxfords with their becoming low heels; the strap effect pumps. Then there's the new oxfords for men, and shoes too, of course.

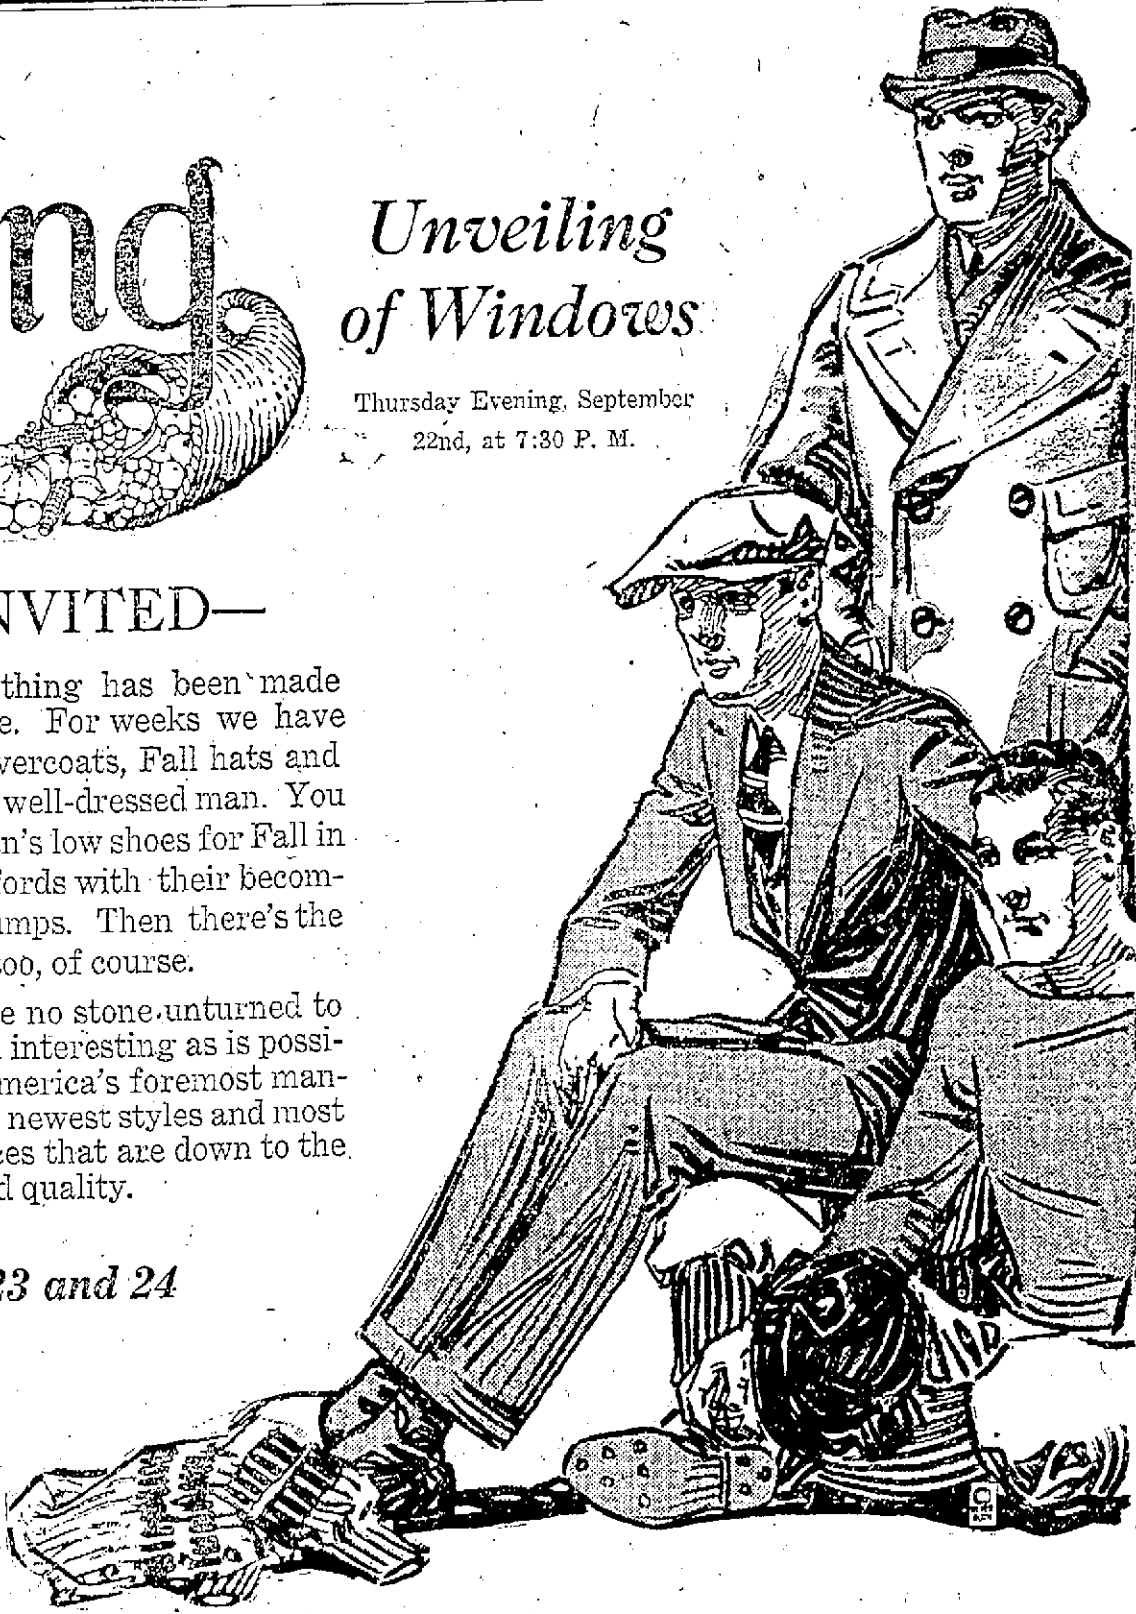

It has been our endeavor to leave no stone unturned to make our stocks as complete and interesting as is possible—to assemble the goods of America's foremost manufacturers, to be able to show the newest styles and most of all, to offer these goods at prices that are down to the lowest notch consistent with good quality.

HULL, NOT A CITY BUT JUST A CREEK

Old English Town Where the 2R-2 Fell Carries a Different Name.

Washington, D. C.—The city of Hull does not officially exist, says a bulletin issued by the National Geographic society, dealing with the town in England near which the United States Navy's giant dirigible balloon, 2R-2, exploded. "Hull" is the name of a small river emptying into the broad estuary of the Humber, and the official name of the city at its mouth is Kingston-upon-Hull. "Wrapped up in the name is the history of a more or less profitable real estate deal by King Edward I of England, who, though he conquered Wales by force of arms, acquired the city on the Humber by the more peaceful process of trading some outlying acreage with the monks who owned it. He had visions, which have since been justified, of the town's becoming an important port, and to make the place immediately more popular with settlers changed its name from Wyke-upon-Hull to Kingston-upon-Hull. But a generation impatient of long names seems to have sprung up in England as well as in America, and the city is now almost universally known merely as Hull.

Great Port of Artificial Basins.
Hull has nearly 250,000 inhabitants. It is about 20 miles from the open sea at a point where the estuary of the Humber is some three miles wide. There are many shallow areas in the river and the tide at times makes a marked difference in the water level. Because of this fact Hull's important harbor—it is sixth among the scores of ports of Great Britain—is almost entirely a matter of artificial basins, entered by locks, in which the water is kept at high tide level. The town is situated on a flat, low plain, and a large number of the docks, aggregating hundreds of acres, have been scooped out. A ring of them practically surrounds the old part of the town, so that a forest of stacks and masts seems to spring from its highways. Beyond the chain of basins is the newer part of the city.

"Hull was at one time the head-

Compulsory Membership in Bar Associations Due, Says President of Ohio Attorneys

Dayton, O.—The voluntary state bar association of today is due to give way to an association created under state statutes to which every lawyer is required to belong, according to Daniel W. Iddings of this city, president of the Ohio State Bar association.

The object sought is protection of the public and the legal profession from the unscrupulous lawyer. The Ohio bar associations would have disciplinary powers.

A definite movement to this end which has already made considerable progress is reported by Mr. Iddings. He noted that North Dakota has made all lawyers of the state members of an association which is given on broad powers to evolve such organization as it sees fit. The law went into effect July 1.

In Florida, a more comprehensive bill recently passed the state senate. The Michigan senate has passed a similar bill and in Ohio one was introduced in the Senate but failed to pass. The president of the Ohio Bar Association added that the Nebraska, Maryland, Minnesota, Kansas, Idaho, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, and North Carolina associations were studying the subject.

quarters of the North Sea fishing industry. The area is important center now is Grimsby, on the other side of the Humber and about ten miles nearer the sea. But even now Hull holds second place, being the home port of the largest sailing fleet of its situation, close at once to coal mines and to the western end of the famous Dogger Banks, which are to the fishermen of England what the Newfoundland banks are to those of America.

Germans Raided City.
"In other industries besides fishing Hull is tied closely to the sea. It builds ships, and manufactures sail-cloth, ropes, cables and chains. As a general freight and passenger shipping point it is one of the principal doors to and from northern Europe, especially the Scandinavian countries. There may be a poetic justice in this, for it is up the Humber that most of the Scandinavian raids into Britain were conducted in the ninth and tenth centuries.

"Located opposite the German coast, the mouth of the Humber, too, as the entrance point for numerous air raids by the Germans during the World war. Only one of the raids, that of March, 1915, occasioned any considerable loss of life or destruction of property in Hull itself, but the sweep of Great Zeppelins across the sky and the whir of their engines became commonplace sights and sounds to the dwellers of the city.

"In an age of reforms Hull is known to many as the birthplace and home of William Wilberforce, member of parliament and philanthropist, who brought about the abolition of British slave trade and organized one of the first societies whose aim was to compel the strict observance of Sunday. A column to this pioneer reformer stands in one of the public squares of Hull."

Volcano Crater Old Arsenal of Island Tribes

Honolulu, T. H.—The weapon storehouse in the immense crater of extinct Haleakala, where the natives of Maui many years ago made their last stand against the all conquering king of Hawaii, has been discovered, according to Emil A. Berndt, a business man of Honolulu.

Only two others share the secret, and it is to be kept until a superintendent of the Hawaii National park is appointed, who can take steps to preserve the treasures of the cave. The crater of the old volcano was the stronghold of the islanders of Maui. On its brink they had built many little fortresses and in a cave in its recesses they maintained their arsenal. Their defenses, however, proved futile against the advance of Kamehameha the Great, who united the archipelago into the kingdom of Hawaii and became its first ruler.

In the decades that have since elapsed, many of the "pit boxes" on the crater's lips have been discovered and robbed of weapons found beneath their stone floors.

Mr. Berndt says that each of the three white men with knowledge of the cave stumbled across it while wandering aimlessly about after losing their way in the crater. The reports it contains crude stone hatchets, immense quantities of sling shot stones, spear heads and other implements of ancient warfare.

HESSIAN RELIC OF REVOLUTION FOUND

New York.—A Hessian soldier's belt buckle has been found by historical workers excavating the site of the Revolutionary war prison camp on the old Dyckman farm, near 203d street. The buckle, of bronze, is in a perfect state of preservation and officials of the Field expedition committee of the New York Historical society say it is one of the few Revolutionary relics of undoubted Hessian origin. The buckle has been identified as part of the equipment of the Puers Frederick or Erb Prinz regiment of Hesse, mercenaries brought over by the British to fight Washington's continental. On the front of the buckle is engraved the monogram "F. F." surrounded by a crown. The original hook or belt holder is on the back. The Puers Frederick regiment, originally 688 strong, took part in many engagements in the Revolution. It participated in the battle of Long Island, and was assigned to the left wing of Earl Percy's force at the battle of Fort Mifflin. Later the regiment was sent south and eventually was captured at Yorktown.

3,000 SANITATION TOURS ARE LISTED

Health Conditions Greatly Improved by Regular Inspections.

Some conception of the widespread activities of the city sanitary inspector for the past year can be gained from records of the health department which show more than 3,000 inspections made and 300 complaints investigated. The figures of Dr. L. J. Woodworth were secured following a report that the city councilmen are considering doing the next year to reduce expenses.

Summary of Work

Following is a summary of the work done by Dr. Woodworth from September 1, 1920 to September 1, 1921:

- Inspections for the year.....2686
- Alley inspections.....408
- Complaints investigated.....208
- Interviews in regard to sanitation.....508
- Notices sent out to correct unsanitary conditions.....178
- Places quarantined for contagious diseases.....4
- Cases in court on sanitary charges.....4

Also, the sanitary inspector was instrumental in establishing the garbage collection system in Janesville, and the passing of the garbage and milk ordinances by the city council.

Dysentery is the value of the city having a sanitary inspector the following local data from the bureau of vital statistics is found:

- Deaths from dysentery.....11
- 1920.....1
- 1921.....1

During the period of 1920 there was no sanitary inspection. During the year 1920, there was established the office of sanitary inspector and in consequence the death rate from dysentery was cut from 11 to 1. During the year of 1921, the city has had sanitary inspections regularly and the present date there has been but one death from dysentery.

Dysentery is strictly a fly borne disease and comes from the contamination of food by flies. These flies are born from unsanitary conditions and spread diseases. The fact that the stores selling food and food products in the city have been inspected and have kept the food from its contamination during the period where there has been a sanitary inspector has been largely responsible for the lowering of the death rate from that which prevailed during 1920.

Battle of Eski-Shehir Epic in Greek Annals; 14 Turk Divisions Flee

(For Associated Press.)
Eski-Shehir, Asia Minor.—The battle of Eski-Shehir probably will remain an epic in modern Greek history. It was here that the Hellenic army, crowned its smashing 11-day offensive against the Turks by vanquishing 14 divisions of Mustafa Kemal and scattering his legions in disorder toward Ankara. Some regard it as one of the most decisive battles in all of Greece's long time of struggle.

Seven Greek divisions shared in the honor of the victory. The Third Army Corps, commanded by General George Polyniakos, covered itself with special distinction. The same army corps was the first to occupy Kemal's other great stronghold, Kutahia.

The Turks had sought to lay a trap for the Greeks. They retired from Eski-Shehir on the afternoon of July 19, and took up positions in the hills just outside the town. It was a few days, when the Greek forces should be well within the town.

Eski-Shehir was a great prize—an important railroad head, linking Constantinople with Ankara. The town lay peacefully on the broad wheat-covered plain, the surrounding mountains combining to form a vast amphitheater around its city.

At noon on July 21, believing most of the Greek troops would be caught unaware within the city, Kemal with all his available troops, launched a spirited attack from a point eight kilometers to the north of the town. The Turkish force descended from the crest of the long range of hills which encircle Eski-Shehir, like wolves bearing down on a sheepfold.

The Greeks had taken up positions on the outskirts of the city. They themselves had planned an offensive that afternoon. So the Turks found their adversaries more than prepared for action and answered the Turkish attack with a counter offensive. Long lines of Konialis troops could be seen crawling down from the summits of the mountains in serpentine fashion. The Greeks hurried to their positions and awaited the order to fire.

Greeks In Reply
The Turkish guns soon were roaring out a fierce volley. Their aim was accurate and deadly. Scores of Greeks could be seen falling. By degrees the Kemalists advanced until they were within five kilometers of the city. The Greek troops then got into action and answered the Turkish attack with a counter offensive. Long lines of Konialis troops could be seen crawling down from the summits of the mountains in serpentine fashion. The Greeks hurried to their positions and awaited the order to fire.

KEEPS $750,000 YARD FOR PETTED PUSS TO PLAY IN

New York.—A woman who owns a yard facing 50 feet on Fifth avenue at 25th street, in the center of the city's most fashionable shopping district, refuses to sell it because her petted puss has a place to play in.

The property is worth about $750,000, according to real estate men. The dollars paid on it each year in taxes would, if stocked collar on del-lar, make a bundle not to be sneered at by anything short of the cow that jumped over the moon. The cat is just one of those puss everyday walkin' round cats. It was never known to take a prize at a cat show.

Other wealthy people have given similar reasons for refusing to sell business district property which was eagerly sought by many buyers. Some time ago a man who owned a building in Broadway just below Times Square wanted to contract stipulations that none of the prospective buyers would lease it to certain businesses.

His list began with aviary and went right on down the alphabet to zyrtphone dealers, skipping so few lines of business that none would take the place.

Just above the Times Square section of Broadway an aged property owner had a vacant five story building that an automobile sales house wanted to lease. The papers were drawn up and when the interested parties had gathered to sign it, the automobile representative remarked that his concern was going to put "a" electric sign on the roof.

The owner laid down his pen and said that no electric signs were going on top of his building. The deal was not closed and the building remained empty for six years, when the owner died.

CHURCH DIVISIONS HELD HINDRANCE

175 Varieties, Each With Own Program, Obstacle to Success, Claim.

Pittsburgh—One of the greatest difficulties confronting the church lies in the fact that there are 175 varieties of churches in America. Dr. Baxter P. Fullerton, St. Louis, told the World's Alliance of Presbyterian and Reformed churches here Thursday.

Dr. Fullerton is secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions and was telling of the difficulties of home mission work in the United States. Denominationalism, he said, was one of the most serious of these. Each of the 175 kinds of church was endeavoring to promote its own work, both in the city and the country, among native and immigrant alike and, consequently, there was not only overlapping but also overlapping, since there had been no cooperation in the location and development of these various local churches.

Must Christianize Church.
Continuing, he said, the greatest problem before the agencies of the Christian church is to "Christianize the church itself." He declared that there are communities in America where four or five different denominations are at work, each church receiving home mission aid, when one or two churches could be both self-sustaining and self-respecting. Efforts had been made, he said, to change this "shameful situation" but up to the present it existed "to the embarrassment of the work and a scorn of the ungodly." An attempt had been made to unite denominations having similar doctrine and government into one larger unit and in this way unite the local churches into one for better service for the community, but Dr. Fullerton said that extreme denominationalism prevents any very large application of this principle and strong peoples remain apart because of some unimportant or subsidiary question on which the salvation of no soul or community depends.

Evangelical Religion.
"It is apparent, therefore," he went on, "that this larger union will never be accomplished until the kingdom of God bulks larger in the minds of people than the church, until the salvation and service of mankind becomes a greater concern than the establishment of a specific church."

"This duplication of churches is not only harmful to the cause but is also a useless waste of both money and men."

Dr. Fullerton said it was heartening to know that this condition of things was being considered seriously by churches and missionary agencies and pointed out that the organization of a Home Missions Council and Council of Women for Home Missions 14 years ago had become an outstanding evidence of a spirit co-

Woman Official in Ku Klux Klan Defends Principles of the Society

New York.—A woman, Mrs. Elizabeth Tyler of Atlanta, Ga., holds an important office in the Ku Klux Klan, now under a bitter attack by New York and other newspapers. Mrs. Tyler is grand chief of staff of the women's division of the Klan and head of the propaganda department of the organization. In view of the accusations attributed in this attack to the "K. K. K." Mrs. Tyler's presence in the higher circle of the Klan is of interest.

Mrs. Tyler denies emphatically most of the charges hurled at the society.

"I take exception to the statement that the Ku Klux Klan is anti-Jew and anti-Catholic. On the contrary, it is a Christian, Protestant organization that believes in and teaches absolute separation of church and state, and its members must owe no allegiance to any foreign government or power, and the Catholic and Jew, under these conditions, automatically bar themselves," said Mrs. Tyler in a recent statement.

Lawlessness Denied.

"Any fraternal order has the unquestioned right to select its membership, and this organization is no less than the Knights of Columbus are anti-Protestant, and no more anti-Jew than the Sons of Israel are anti-Gentile."

"I must strenuously object to the charge of lawlessness. It is forbidden by the constitution and rules of the order, and any Klansman violating these rules is immediately banished from the organization. We court and welcome the most rigid investigation."

"There are other statements made that are not fair, but I shall not go into them because they are rather expressions of unfriendly opinion and prejudice than a statement of facts. We grant the right of any individual to honestly dislike us, and sometimes operation prevailing in the churches."

15,500 in Mission Work.

Despite the hindrance of denominationalism, Dr. Fullerton reported that the spirit of evangelism prevailing in America was one of the most hopeful signs of the time.

Never in the course of a year had there been such an interest in bringing men into the church, he said.

He recounted the difficulties in attempting to Christianize and Americanize the polyglot peoples of the cities and how it is to be the mission of the church as well as of the state to solve the problems of sanitation and housing.

He said that, according to best information, there are now 15,500 men and women engaged in some form of missionary work in this country and more than $26,000,000 invested in the business of making and keeping America Christian for the redemption of mankind and the friendly service of the world.

we are proud of the enemies we have made.

White Man's Country.

"The order does not foster race prejudice, but believes there is room in this country for every race. We do believe, however, that this is a white man's country, so ordained by the will of God, and that the reins of government should and must rest in the hands of its white citizens, and that they should guide and shape its destiny.

Mrs. Elizabeth Tyler.

"We stand unreservedly for white supremacy. For this we do not refer to the negro alone, but we mean every colored race in the world, so far as the United States is concerned."

"I take exception to the suggestion that the order is a 'grafting institution' and also in the reference made to the home which was purchased for Col. W. J. Simmons, head of the Klan, by the Klansmen of the nation. I can and do truthfully state that Colonel Simmons is a poor man and at the time the idea of the home was conceived he was receiving only $100 per week salary, and previous to that for five years—he received practically nothing from the organization."

Klan Is Planned.

"The thing the Klan has had to fight hardest is the mob violence that has been resorted to by men masked in white, masquerading as Klansmen. There was a woman tarred and feathered in some Texas town. It was laid to the Klan. Upon investigation we learned that the tarring was done by mothers of the town, dressed in overalls, not white robes, who were against the woman as an immoral influence."

STATE WILL HAVE GREAT DAIRY SHOW

Wisconsin Hopes to Win Highest Honors at U. S. Meet.

Wisconsin dairymen will seek to strengthen the state's claim upon national leadership in dairying by sending to the national show to be held in St. Paul October 8-15, an exhibit of Ayrshire, Brown Swiss, Guernsey, Holstein and Jersey cattle which will equal or outrank any which has ever been assembled by Badger stockmen.

Rock county will have cows in the display. The feature of the Wisconsin exhibit will be a collection of Holsteins from the herds of the state to be chosen by Owen Mullen, Jefferson county; Fred Klusendorf, Waukesha county and L. L. Oldham, Dane county.

The Wisconsin Holstein show herd will include animals reconsecrated from the herds of Harvest Farms, Dodge county; F. J. Mullen, Jefferson county; M. L. Cusack, Walworth county; William O'Leary, Walworth county; O'Connor & Cook, Racine county; Nathan Dickenson and Son, Walworth county; Fred Vlietboach, Waukesha county; Jefferson County Asylum, Spring Brook Farm, Dodge county; Klusendorf Bros., Waukesha county; Aiken Bros., Waukesha county; W. G. Marshall, Walworth county; Carnation Farms, Waukesha county; Emmens Elaine Estate, Jefferson county; S. M. Randall, Fond du Lac county; Henry Stauffacher, Green county; W. L. Baird, Waukesha county; and Beck Bros., Racine county.

Wisconsin breeders will participate in the special meeting of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, which is scheduled to be held in St. Paul, October 11. This conference grew out of the recent Syracuse "scrap" which threatened to split the membership of the association into two factional parties.

Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois and now the president of the association, is seeking to bring about a harmonious relationship among the 20,000 members of the organization.

There never has been an outrage committed by the Klan and wherever we have heard of one being imputed to us we have at once sent out official disclaimers, but of course it is harder to get circulation for a denial of anything than for a positive statement. But I say officially that the Klan does not countenance any violence of any sort."

SIGNS ARE BETTER FOR ALL BUSINESS

Cotton a Feature, Wheat Exports Large, Corn to Pay Debts.

Washington.—Business conditions the country over have turned upward definitely, especially in the last few weeks.

Government economic experts are convinced of this. In the preparation for the big unemployment conference to be held here shortly one of the first things undertaken was a careful and exhaustive survey of exact business conditions. It is not completed yet, but the general picture in the national business situation is brighter colors than would have been seen several months ago, or even a few weeks ago.

"We've rounded the corner. Things are not going as they should yet, but we are going uphill, not downhill, nor even standing still," about sums the average reaction as it is reported in Washington.

Cotton leads the improvement. Right now, the basic thing underlying the "fall pick-up" is the influence of crop money and crop movements. Cotton, which had only a small market at any one time, is moving fairly fast.

The south was stagnant. There was plenty of cotton, but bank loans on that cotton exceeded the cotton's value. The cotton market is now in a position where the owner nor the banker could afford to push liquidation. The rise of cotton to around 20 cents a pound not only put the staple above the value of the bank loan, but is returning money to the planter. He can buy again and is starting to buy, reports here show. The rise has given between 300 million and one-half billion dollars in potential added buying power to the south. The price still is low compared to the dizzy war levels, but it is sufficient to get the south started anew.

Export of Wheat.

Government experts point to the tremendous exports of wheat, especially record breaking August shipments, as indications of positive improvement in the grain situation. Wheat has not budged upward as cotton did. It's not the business of government officials to predict price movements and they refrain from doing so. But it is the belief of those familiar with the situation here that the wheat market is on the upgrade on this year's crop. World factors point toward higher rather than lower prices. With a record corn crop coming on for the fall it should mean money for debt paying on the farm, even though the price is abnormally low and the rail rate abnormally high. The crop movement likewise should end the railroads' poverty wall. The July earnings showed a tremendous improvement—the effect of the wage decrease. The August earnings were far better. And the railroads, collecting the high rate on the crop movement, will have money with which to start re-employment. Reports here show steady expansion of the force of rail employees.

Industry as a whole is in far better shape for the coming winter than last. Long idle periods have exhausted savings, however, which brings the problem of possible distress that was not so apparent last winter. The textile mills, possibly New England's greatest single industry, are running 85 per cent capacity, compared to about 15 per cent last winter. The steel mills have likewise passed the low ebb. Production has climbed from around 15 per cent to well above 25 per cent. Railroad buying on a normal scale will put the steel industry in healthy shape. And so the story goes.

Nonpartisan League in Life and Death Struggle Under Recall in North Dakota

Fargo, N. D.—While over in Wisconsin the nonpartisan league is making a light for control of every office as well as the legislature in order to put on the program of socialist government copied after that of North Dakota, the life and death struggle of the league is on in North Dakota. The recall election of the three state officers, the recall of the legislature, the recall of the state government, has been the campaign and the program of the league since its inception.

From now until the recall election is held every voter in North Dakota will be appealed to come out on one side or the other. And, moreover, every public man will have to take one side or the other. That is where the trouble for Senator McCumber comes. For a long time there have been intimations in North Dakota that the McCumber-backed and that means the old Alex McKendle-backed Nonpartisan League leaders, including A. C. Townley and William Lemke.

Five years ago when the league was first swept into power, no candidate was put up against McCumber. He had clear sailing. Since that time there have been many indications that the league was trying to get the senator recalled. The league has been working to get the senator recalled.

Miller Recommended

Lately there has come up a federal appointment to replace Senator McCumber. He has been recommended to the president of the United States. The recommendation is for Alexander McKendle, a league leader. The league has been working to get the senator recalled.

Miller, however, has the most active opposition of the North Dakota league. He is in the ranks of the independents. If the president appoints Miller, McCumber's troubles will be doubled.

Last week, the independents, meeting in Fargo to outline plans for the campaign, called openly upon Senator McCumber to state his position in the recall election. He, together with the congressmen, was told to take one side or the other.

"No more pussyfooting" was the word that went out from that conference, and that applied to Senator McCumber and all the rest of the office-holders who have been elected to high places by the people of the state.

Ladd Takes Sides

Senator Ladd, naturally, has already taken sides with the Nonpartisan League. He was elected by the Nonpartisans, with aid rendered by the McKendle faction. The McKendle faction put Frank White of Valley City into the race for senator against Ladd and A. J. Crona. The "white" vote was enough to defeat Crona and give the seat to Ladd.

White later became treasurer of the United States. He broke into the limelight by publishing a recommendation for North Dakota bonds. It has been intimated that White did this at the request of both Senators Ladd and McCumber. The recommendation was withdrawn when it was made plain that it was a violation of the law for the treasurer of the United States to give his recommendation to any such bond issue. The incident was one which caused untold chagrin to the Harding administration.

Former Senator Crona is reported as ready to get into the race against McCumber next year. He will have the support of the independents unless, in the meantime, Senator McCumber comes into the fold.

Battle Now on

The recall election campaign is expected to go forward with a vim this coming week. Mr. Nestor, gubernatorial candidate, has already taken the stump. Mr. O'Connor will speak in every county of the state. The league forces are already busy trying to bolster up their cause. Attorney General Lemke and Governor Frazier are out speaking.

"My prediction that the independents will score a decisive victory in the recall election is not an idle forecast but is based on a careful study of the political and industrial situation over a period of five years," said Mr. O'Connor in Minneapolis recently. "It takes into consideration the fact that the Nonpartisan League's majority, which was 59,000 in 1916, fell to a mere 4,500 at the last general election despite the circumstance that the electorate last fall was doubled by the addition of women voters. It takes note of an even later development, the disintegration of league forces, which has taken place ever since the general election."

Initiated Laws Win

"This was the effect of the general election as it applied to the government," said Mr. O'Connor in Minneapolis recently. "It takes into consideration the fact that the Nonpartisan League's majority, which was 59,000 in 1916, fell to a mere 4,500 at the last general election despite the circumstance that the electorate last fall was doubled by the addition of women voters. It takes note of an even later development, the disintegration of league forces, which has taken place ever since the general election."

Margin Continually Cut

"Consider a few outstanding figures which show the political trend of things," Mr. O'Connor continued. In 1916, Lynn J. Frazier was swept into office by a majority of 59,000. The league got control of all state offices, the state supreme court and the house of representatives. In 1918, after two years of almost unbridled authority, during which it was free to go ahead with its widely-horned program, its majority was cut down to 52,000. It succeeded, however, in adding control of the state senate to its other powers.

"Contrast these results of four and two years previous with the general election of 1916. Although it was a presidential year and Governor Frazier enjoyed the great advantage of having his name appear on the Republican ballot, his majority over his opponent was but 4,500. This manner majority was obtained while President Harding stronger position a twelvemonth ago than it is now.

Then, briefly recapitulated, this was the situation:

The state mill and elevator at Grand Forks was employing some 200 men. The Home Builders' association was operating and employing a large force. The Bank of North Dakota had from $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 on deposit and carried 100 employees on its payroll. The league had subsidized newspapers under its control in practically every county. It owned two daily newspapers, one in Fargo and one in Grand Forks.

Many banks were established under league control.

The United Consumers' stores were in operation.

There was harmony among the Nonpartisan league leaders.

How It Has Changed

For the contrast offered by the present, Mr. O'Connor pointed out: Work has ceased on the mill and elevator and the $1,000,000 enterprise stands idle. The Home Builders' association has been scrapped. The Bank of North Dakota is refusing to pay checks. Many school districts which had their money on deposit there are unable to pay teachers' salaries. The league newspaper monopoly has been broken up, many of the publications having suspended.

Of the two league-owned dailies, the one at Grand Forks is in the hands of a receiver. Many of the league banks have closed their doors. The United Consumers' store is in the hands of a receiver. The league leaders are fighting among themselves. A. C. Townley has "ruined up" North Dakota since the general election, while William Lemke has supplanted him as state leader.

This drawing of the "deadly parallel" Mr. O'Connor believes, furnishes an insight into the reason why the independents feel assured of a decisive victory.

When the men came home from the army, navy or "jardines," and the tailors of the land rubbed their hands in glee while furnishing the youths with "civies," they found the average ready-to-wear suit would not fit. Army life had increased the chest measurement of the American youth from one to four inches. He stood erect, shoulders even, his head up, and chest out. Clothes would not fit him in his military carriage and military form. It had to be an oversize suit fitted down.

In two years the former service man has lost his shape or his military room. The fact that the stern colonel was not around to demand the pose of "attention" or the crusty sergeant with his constant command of "heads up" soon had its effect. The chest measurements have decreased.

"It is a fact that the young men who saw service are easier to fit now," said Jules Levy of the Golden Eagle.

"When first home their chests were as big as a barrel."

Military training certainly changed the physique of the young men," suggested J. L. Ford. "You couldn't get the average suit to fit correctly and altering was necessary in most cases where the buyer had been with the colors for a year or more. It is noticeable how their chest measurements and general physical form have changed in the last year."

SERVICE MEN FAST LOSING MILITARY POSE, TAILORS FIND

Snugly the tailor fits the tape around the chest of the youth ordering a suit of the latest creation of herring-bone cloth for a winter suit. Two years ago that tape measure told a different story and therein hangs a yarn.

It is argued that the American woman, in addition to getting the tariff would make a good business bargain, since the exiled Russian noblemen all have large estates which they hope to recover when private property is restored and Bolshevik Russia is no more.

When the men came home from the army, navy or "jardines," and the tailors of the land rubbed their hands in glee while furnishing the youths with "civies," they found the average ready-to-wear suit would not fit. ## Automobile Bridge to Span Columbia River?

(AN ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Cascade Locks, Ore.—The "Bridge of the Gods," a natural bridge which Indian legend says once spanned the wide Columbia River here, may be replaced by a bridge of steel or concrete for passage of the white man's automobile.

From father to son, back further than the white man's writings go, has come the tale of how once a great mass of stone and earth and huge trees arched the Columbia as a causeway upon which Indians crossed the wide-flowing stream. Then there came a day when the bridge of nature was shaken from its moorings, and sank into the water. And that is how, they say, the cascades were created.

Geographical and geological investigators have reported that the red men's story may be true. When the waters of the Columbia are clear and low late in the year, remains of trees may be seen standing, as they may have stood before the bridge fell and formed the cascades.

Credence is placed in the natural bridge of F. H. Hatch, author of the Indian romance, "The Bridge of the Gods." He says that Indians everywhere along the river-Columbia tell of the great bridge that once stood over the cascades.

"All Columbia tribes tell the story," he says, "in different versions and different dialects, but all agreeing on the essential features as one of the great facts of past history."

Engineers were recently reported making preliminary surveys on both sides of the Columbia for a bridge just below the cascades.

Near East Is Terrorized by Bedbug Scourge

Constantinople.—The bedbug has become a Near East problem. It is apparently a new breed of bug, imported from those imported by Russian, Persian and Turkish refugees, it is driving hotel keepers, their guests and housewives to the utter despair and hopelessness born of sleepless nights.

It has invaded the palace of the Sultan and added to the worries of his Grand Chamberlain. The fight against it is regarded as insolvable as that of the dispute between the Turks and the Greeks. It is smaller than the type of pest, says and some of those who have examined the new bug assert that it has wings and flies like a mosquito.

Its activities defy mosquito netting. It appears able to bite through such netting. It doesn't always creep itself in the bedding but may stay itself in the ceilings and from there drop upon its victims. It doesn't sting but it swarms, attacking from all directions.

The bug has appeared among the soldiers of Greek and Turkish armies. A newspaper correspondent with the Greek defense the bedbug by the use of a rubber blanket. Either the odor or slippery surface of the blanket proved disagreeable obstacles.

FOE U-BOAT ENGINE USED IN NAVY YARD

Portsmouth, N. H.—Part of the equipment of the German submarine U-111, a gasoline engine, is being used at the local navy yard to chase batteries for American submarines.

This engine is said to be one of the few souvenirs from German undersea craft that have been found available for practical use in the United States.

LABOR OPPOSES AUCTION BLOCK

Ladoux Methods Do Not Meet Approval of Organized Labor.

New York.—Organized labor has joined war veterans' organizations, civic leaders and public officials in denouncing plans of Urban Ladoux, head of the "Church of the Unemployed," to bring his Boston "slave market" to New York.

The Central Trades and Labor Council of Greater New York entered an emphatic protest, in the form of resolutions, against the "public auction of men and women," and termed the persons backing such a project "self-styled uplifters" and "notoriety seekers."

Labor Opposes.
The resolutions adopted follow: "Whereas, it is announced in the newspapers that self-styled uplifters and so-called social workers are coming to New York City to exploit the poor unfortunate out of employment by inaugurating a system of public auction of men and women; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the officers of the Central Trades and Labor Council enter a vigorous protest in the name of organized labor with the city officials against any exploitation of men, women and children by these notoriety seekers, who exploit the workers for their own ends; and be it further

Resolved, That we also urge the city, state and federal governments to proceed as rapidly as possible to complete public work now on the way and to inaugurate other public improvements to relieve the distress caused by unemployment."

On the Other Side.
An opposing view to that of the labor council and others was expressed in a letter sent by the American Civil Liberties Union, of 138 West Third teenth street, to Police Commissioner Enright, protesting against his ruling forbidding the "auction."

The letter, which was signed by Walter Nelles, counsel for the union, said in part:

"We note with concern an announcement in this morning's papers that you will not permit a proposed meeting relating to unemployment problems. You are reported to have based your ruling on the theory that public consideration of these problems is unnecessary."

"You are, of course, in your private capacity entitled to the opinion that this particular subject matter should not be considered, and you would be within your rights in organizing a lawful demonstration in support of that opinion."

As to Meetings.
"As to the subject matter of public meetings and the wisdom and taste of particular methods of demonstration, opinions endlessly differ. But you would hardly interfere with a meeting in behalf of any of the various candidates for mayor of New York on the grounds that you considered his methods in poor taste or his candidacy unnecessary."

How To Revitalize Wornout Exhausted Nerves
Your nerve power depends on plenty of good, rich, red blood of the kind that organic iron-Nuxated iron—helps make. Nuxated iron is like the healthy iron in your blood, like the iron in spinach and apples, while metallic iron is iron just as it comes from the action of strong acids on iron filings. Nuxated iron does not irritate the stomach, and it is an easily absorbed, from ordinary metallic iron. It quickly helps make rich, red blood, revitalize wornout, exhausted nerves and give you new strength and energy. Over 2,000,000 people actually are using it. Beware of substitutes. Always insist upon having genuine organic iron—Nuxated iron. Look for the letters N.I. on every tablet. Sold by all druggists in tablet only—never in liquid form.

Anatomy Model Maker Finds N. 2. Too Costly

New York.—Gustave Van Bouchapt, who makes stucco models of the human anatomy for the leading medical colleges, soon will return to Belgium, because he can't find quarters in New York at the right price and because he can't obtain the proper help here. In his work, he says, long training is required, and he has been unable to find anyone willing to serve the apprenticeship.

Van Bouchapt revolutionized the art of making anatomical models. The old models were clumsy, heavy and often inaccurate.

Commissioned by Bellevue hospital in this city, the Belgian set out to produce models that should be light, absolutely accurate and perfectly colored. He succeeded after years of painstaking work and infinitesimal expenditure in making the models so nearly perfect that it was difficult to tell the difference from the original organ.

MAN'S BEST AGE.
A man is as old as his organs; he can be as vigorous and healthy at 70 as at 35 if he aids his organs in performing their functions. Keep your vital organs healthy with

GOLD MEDAL HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES
The world's standard remedy for kidney, liver, bladder and uric acid troubles, since 1896; corrects disorders; stimulates vital organs. All druggists, three sizes. Look for the name Gold Medal on every box and accept no imitation.

Janesville's Merchants' Fall Opening

September 23-24, 1921

Disclosing the Accepted Modes for Autumn and Winter

With assortments so complete and varied, you will find this the most advantageous time to make selections.

Your New Fall Suit

may have a long or short jacket, and if you read between the lines you will know at once that variety is the dominating feature in the Suits this Fall.

The tendency is toward tailored models, but with short box coat very fashionable. With the long redingote just as fashionable. With all sorts of belted styles in vogue.

Fall Wraps and Coats Hava a Luxurious Air

To be sure there are many utility coats which for practical purposes have avoided extensive trimmings and adornment. But in the fashionable wraps there is the luxury of large draped collars, cuffs and pockets. If one were to mention collars, the witchery of the rich, beautiful fur in the predominating color, it would be brown, yet it comes in so many variations.

Your New Fur

For comfort and warmth, Fall and Winter Furs might have substitutes; but for beauty and adornment, emphatically No! This store, true to its policy of unvarying quality, presents only Fur Creations fashioned of worthy pelts.

Fabrics That Challenge Scissors, Needles and Nimble Fingers

This showing predicts a lively sewing season for here are materials that have anticipated everything which women want to make.

Beautiful Satins, Crepes and Taffetas in plain shades suggest one silk frock, blouse or skirt after another.

Woollens of rich colorings and durable texture are here for that modish suit, frock, wrap or skirt.

The New Carpets and Rugs New Floor Coverings New Draperies New Lace Curtains

Fashions in such things change just as they do in wearing apparel. From our large selection of home furnishings you can select patterns and designs that will give the right touch of color and attractiveness to your home.
